The Family 1933 mcruer makes a case that queer and disabled identities politics and cultural logics are inexorably intertwined and that queer and disability theory need one another crip theory makes clear that no cultural analysis is complete without attention to the politics of bodily ability and alternative corporealities

Crip Theory 2006-06 international crime and justice are powerful ideas associated with a vivid imagery of heinous atrocities injured humanity and an international community seized by the need to act through an analysis of archival and contemporary data imagining the international provides a detailed picture of how ideas of international crime crimes against all of humanity and global justice are given content foregrounding their ethical limits and potentials nesam mcmillan argues that dominant approaches to these ideas problematically disconnect them from the lived and the specific and foster distance between those who have experienced international crime and those who have not mcmillan draws on interdisciplinary work spanning law criminology humanitarianism socio legal studies cultural studies and human geography to show how understandings of international crime and justice hierarchize spectacularize and appropriate the suffering of others and promote an ideal of justice fundamentally disconnected from life as it is lived mcmillan critiques the mode of global interconnection they offer one which bears resemblance to past colonial global approaches and which seeks to foster community through the image of crime and the practice of punitive justice this book powerfully underscores the importance of the ideas of international crime and justice and their significant limits cautioning against their continued valorization
