calum carmichael asserts that biblical texts both in the old and new testaments which have been the subject of interpretation for centuries are themselves often the products of the ancient authors interpretation of still other literary compositions claiming that parts of the bible constitute major and very early examples of exegesis carmichael demonstrates that the author of the story of creation in genesis 1 produced his work in reaction to troubling issues that arose in the story of the exodus the author of john s gospel in turn recounted the life of jesus in light of the story of creation pointing out that much of modern literary criticism has roots in biblical hermeneutics carmichael turns his attention to the richness and complexity of the ancient world s own modes of interpretation by doing so he is able to uncover the heretofore unrecognized influence of the exodus story on the creation story and of the creation story on john s gospel carmichael first shows how the author of the seven day scheme of creation in genesis produced it in response to his reading of the exodus story which was centuries old in his time he then shows the extent to which the author of john s gospel was influenced by first century cosmological speculation philo s in particular in the first five chapters of his gospel the author elaborated the details of the creation story to present in allegorical fashion incidents from the life of jesus what will the final state of the redeemed look like throughout the history of the church conceptions of the final state have tended to minimize the promise of the new heavens and new earth in contrast to the historical dominance of spiritual heavenly non temporal conceptions of the final state the last two decades have witnessed a rise in conceptions that include the redemption of material earthly and temporal reality these new creation conceptions have included proposals regarding the fulfillment of old testament land promises in new creation eschatology and the land steven l james argues that in recent new creation conceptions of the final state there is a logical inconsistency between the use of old testament texts to inform a renewed earth and the exclusion of the territory of israel from that renewed earth by examining a select group of new creationists james shows that the exclusion of the territorial restoration of israel in a new creation conception fails to appreciate the role of the particular territory in old testament prophetic texts and results in an inconsistent new creationism the patristic understanding of creation encapsulates what the church fathers had to say in their own words on the topic of creation going back to roman and byzantine times the writings of the church fathers are basic to christian theology and provide a benchmark for how christians have traditionally understood creation this understanding of creation however faces tremendous challenges in our day especially in discussions at the intersection of science and religion process theology and other efforts to reconceptualize creation have explicitly opposed key elements of the christian doctrine of creation creation ex nihilo the transcendence and immanence of god in creation the absolute creatureliness and non self sufficiency of the world to use a phrase of fr georges florovsky the goodness of creation and the openness of the world to divine action all of these the church fathers not only held but also ably defended this anthology is therefore not merely of academic or historical interest in reasserting a theologically sound understanding of creation this anthology fills a need that is both practical and urgent as a biblical motif new creation resonates throughout the pages of the jewish and christian scriptures and occupies a central place in the apostle paul s vision of the christian life yet the biblical and extra biblical occurrences of this theme vary widely in meaning referring to either a new cosmos a new community or a new individual beginning with the old testament and working through the important texts of second temple judaism moyer v hubbard focuses on how the motif functions in the argument strategy and literary structure of these documents highlighting its role as the solution to the perceived plight he then explores in detail which senses of the term paul intends in galatians 6 15 and 2 corinthians 5 17 concluding that new creation in paul s letters describes the spirit wrought newness of the person in christ and is fundamentally anthropological in orientation creation rediscovered by jeffery m leonard guides readers through a contextual reading of the bible s creation stories over the last two centuries few subjects have generated as much controversy for christians as has creation the whethers whens and hows of creation have often become a battlefield in which the pitched forces of competing sides darwinists and creationists young earthers and old figurativists and literalists have struggled for the upper hand like most battles this fight has tended to inflict a fair amount of collateral damage along the way this is especially true for those put in the terrible position of feeling they have had to choose between the bible they have fallen in love with and the science they have studied in this book jeffery leonard writes to fellow travelers in the faith who want to take the biblical text seriously while at the same time appreciate science s exploration of what we consider to be god s creation it is his contention that setting the bible s creation texts back within their ancient context allows us to do both of these things indeed leonard believes that when we reread what the bible has to say about creation in its original setting we find meaning in the text far more profound than what we have previously imagined key points and features written by a bible scholar unique timely and fresh interpretation helps readers see the bible s creation stories as vessels of healing and hope in god s larger plan for humanity attempts to redirect christians to read the ancient creation stories within the context in which they were written why does the christian walk often feel like an ongoing struggle and why does god s creation include imperfection let alone forces that are intent on thwarting god s creative work in seeking a response to these questions this book argues that the biblical accounts describe creation in terms of a progressive transformation process whereby the initially incomplete created order will reach perfection only in the fulfillment of new creation the following discussion then outlines a comprehensive framework for the biblical theology of humanity s struggles centered on three key themes corporeal temptation deficient social structures and the much debated notion of spiritual warfare the book presents an overarching canonical narrative that threads together a series of diverse biblical topics from job s temptation to the atonement the final part surveys biblical teaching on how human conduct can be aligned with god s creative purpose and discusses three assignments from jesus to believers to celebrate the eucharist to pray the lord s prayer and to fulfill the great commission
