

brinell hardness wikipedia May 22 2024

brinell hardness is a method of measuring the hardness of a material. It is named after the Swedish engineer Johan August Brinell. The test involves pressing a hard metal ball into the surface of the material and measuring the diameter of the resulting indentation. The Brinell hardness number (BHN) is calculated as the load divided by the surface area of the indentation. The test is commonly used for materials with a hardness between 100 and 650 HB.

struers com Apr 21 2024

Struers is a leading manufacturer of hardness testing equipment. Their Brinell hardness testing machines are used in a wide range of industries, including metallurgy, materials science, and quality control. The company offers a variety of models and accessories to meet different testing requirements.
