My Letters to Parents 2021-12-15 every child is born a genius they are blooming flowers and will spread the scent and fragrance that you as parents have nurtured in them while raising them the joys of being a parent are unimaginable while your children may give you the highs of joy there may be lows too of despair and despondency too while your children may give you memories to treasure forever there may be times when you just don't know what you are up against parenting thus is not only an art but a science as well many times a female who is unable to give birth to a child and adopts a child from an orphanage puts all her love and passion into raising her adopted child as a result the child turns out to be a responsible well behaved well cultured adult taking utmost care of his mother and sometimes a mother who nurtures an embryo in her womb for nine months and gives birth to a child fails to turn her child into an understanding adult so parenting is not only about giving birth to a child it is not only about showering love and care on your children instead it is about the process the path you take during the journey of raising your child i am constantly reminded of jess lair who once said children are not things to be molded but people to be unfolded no one in this world can actually teach a parent how to raise their own children but yes one can definitely guide a parent about what aspects can be taken care of to have a satisfaction of effective and graceful parenting this book contains my letters to all the parents who still feel that they are facing difficulties in nurturing values life skills and discipline in their growing kids every letter is a kind of guide to work on your aspect of parenting and deal with your child accordingly i am sure you will love the tips mentioned in my letters and it will also help you to get one step closer to your child to develop that strong connection and bonding that was missing till now

Dear Parents 2020-02-04 written by gabbie stroud author of the national bestseller teacher dear parents is a passionate call to arms for all parents to understand their role as their children's lifelong teachers showing how they can help their kids educators and schools achieve the best outcomes for the next generation so many australian parents are buying the government line about standardised testing of students through programs like naplan and my school which make them think they are getting results because of rankings and comparisons but they don't seem to realise that these new forms of assessment are actually negatively affecting our kids ability to gain the crucial life skills and appreciation for learning that have been and should be the main aim of teaching in dear parents a funny heartfelt and impassioned series of letters to the mothers fathers and caregivers of australia gabbie stroud makes a plea to all parents to understand the fundamental changes to the way their children are being taught and the results of this process on the development of future generations she wants parents to recognise their responsibility as their children's primary educators and to appreciate the lifelong benefits that committed and dedicated school teachers can bring to their kids a moving and inspiring journey through teaching and learning and all they can be if you have a young person in your life or know somebody who does please read this book morris gleitzman australians laureate gabbie stroud's dear parents is a crucial bridge between two important pillars in education parents and teachers but most importantly it holds at its passionate heart the best interests of children if you want to understand the way your children are being educated in these challenging times and whether the system is fit for purpose you must read this funny informative and eye opening book lucy clark author of the critically acclaimed beautiful failures
