during the last 10 years more and more linguistic and psycholinguistic research has been devoted to the study of discourse and written texts much of this research deals with the markers that underline the connections and the breaks between clauses and sentences plus the use of these markers by adults and children in the production and comprehension of oral and written material in this volume major observations and theoretical views from both sides of the Atlantic are brought together to appeal to a wide range of linguists psychologists and speech therapists the volume presents contributions from researchers interested specifically in adult language and from others concerned with developmental aspects of language some contributors deal primarily with production whereas others concentrate on comprehension some direct their attention to oral discourse while others focus on written texts to preserve overall coherence however the contributors were given the following recommendations with regard to the level of linguistic analysis the emphasis should be on the clause level more particularly on the relationships between clauses special emphasis should also be placed on linguistic markers e.g. connectives markers of segmentation punctuation an overview of a given field of research should be offered and current research should be put into perspective for contributors in the developmental field attention should be paid to the fact that an account of the acquisition of some language functions throughout childhood should be included only if general principles of interclause relations that might be masked by the exclusive examination of adult evidence could be derived from it with the publication of the seven storey mountain in 1948 thomas merton became a bestselling author writing about spiritual contemplation in a modern context although merton 1915 1968 lived as a trappist monk he advocated a spiritual life that was not a retreat from the world but an alternative to it particularly to the deadening materialism and spiritual vacuity of the postwar west over the next twenty years merton wrote for a wide audience bringing the wisdom of christianity buddhism and sufism into dialogue with the period s contemporary thought in thinking through thomas merton robert inchausti introduces readers to merton and evaluates his continuing relevance for our time inchausti shows how merton broke the high modernist trance so that we might become the change we wish to see in the world by refiguring the lost virtues of silence contemplation and community in a world enamored by the will to power virtuoso performance radical skepticism and materialist metaphysics merton s defense of contemplative culture is considered in light of the postmodern thought of recent years and emerges as a compelling alternative americans increasingly cite moral values as a factor in how they vote but when we define morality simply in terms of a voter s position on gay marriage and abortion we lose sight of the ethical decisions that guide our everyday lives in our encounters with friends family members nature and nonhuman creatures we practice a nonutilitarian morality that makes sacrifice a rational and reasonable choice recognizing these everyday ethics anna l peterson argues helps us move past the seemingly irreconcilable conflicts of culture and refocus on issues that affect real social change peterson begins by divining a second language for personal and political values a vocabulary derived from the loving and mutually beneficial relationships of daily life even if our interactions with others are fleeting and fragmentary they provide a viable alternative to the contractual and atomistic attitudes of mainstream culture everyday ethics point toward a more just humane and sustainable society and to acknowledge moments of grace in our daily encounters is to realize a different way of relating to people and nonhuman nature an alternative ethic to cynicism and rank consumerism in redefining the parameters of morality peterson enables us to make fundamental problems such as the distribution of wealth the use of public land and natural resources labor and employment policy and the character of political institutions the preferred focus of debate and action
