Conflict Narratives in Middle Childhood 2017-03-27

conflict narratives in middle childhood presents evidence from twenty years of research examining nearly 3 000 narratives from 1 600 children in eight settings in two countries about their own experiences with interpersonal conflict close readings combined with systematic analysis of dozens of features of the stories reveal that when children are invited to write or talk about their own conflicts they produce accounts that are often charming and sometimes heartbreaking and that always bring to light their social emotional and moral development children s personal stories about conflict reveal how they create and maintain friendships how they understand and react to the social aggression that threatens those friendships and how they understand and cope with physical aggression ranging from the pushing and poking of peers to criminal violence in their neighborhoods or families sometimes children describe the efforts of adults to influence their conflicts efforts they sometimes welcome and sometimes resist their stories show them taking on gender and other cultural commitments we are not just watching children become more and more like us as they move through the elementary school years we are watching them become the architects of a future we will only see to the extent that we understand their way of making sense

a transformational approach to conflict argues that conflicts must be viewed as embedded within broader relational patterns and social and discursive structures central to this book is the idea that the origins of transformation can be momentary situational and small scale or large scale and systemic the momentary involves shifts and meaningful changes in communication and related patterns that are created in communication between people momentary transformative changes can radiate out into more systemic levels and systemic transformative changes can radiate inward to more personal levels this book engages this transformative framework by bringing together current scholarship that epitomizes and highlights the contribution of communication scholarship and communication centered approaches to conflict transformation in personal family and working relationships and organizational contexts the resulting volume presents an engaging mix of scholarly chapters think pieces and personal experiences from the field of practice and everyday life the book embraces a wide variety of theoretical and methodological approaches including narrative critical intersectional rhetorical and quantitative it makes a valuable additive contribution to the ongoing dialogue across and between disciplines on how to transform conflicts creatively sustainably and ethically

The Sociolinguistics of Narrative 2005

this book aims to appraise sociolinguistic work devoted to the form and function of storytelling and to examine in detail the ways in which narrative constitutes a fundamental discursive resource across a range of contexts the chapters presented here bring together some of the most recent work in the theory and practice of narrative analysis from a broad sociolinguistic perspective they address some of the questions left implicit whenever stories are brought within the analytic frame of sociolinguistics what exactly do we mean by story what kind of social and contextual variations can determine the production and shape of situated stories and what are the core elements of narrative as a discursive unit and interactional resource how is the relationship between narrative discourse and social context articulated in the construction of cultural identities the data come both from institutional settings such as workplaces courtrooms schools and the media as well as from informal everyday settings

in the stories that people tell about conflict the relationship narrative is commonly shaped to fit the conflict story but there are always other relationship stories that can be told this edition shows how to find and grow a counter story to the conflict story and to help people make choices about which story they want to perform

Master Narratives, Identities, and the Stories of Former Slaves 2016-03-31

this book is intended for researchers in the field of narrative from post graduate level onwards it analyzes the audio recordings of the narratives of former slaves from the american south which are now publically available on the library of congress website voices from the days of slavery more specifically this book analyses the identity work of these former slaves and considers how these identities are related to master narratives the novelty of this book is that through using such a temporally diverse and relatively large corpus we show how master narratives change according to both the zeitgeist of the here and now of the interview world and the historical period that is related in the there and then of the story world moreover focusing on the active achievement of master narratives as socially situated co constructed discursive accomplishments we analyze how different inherently unstable and even contradictory versions of master narratives are enacted
