Congressional Record

this book discusses the significance of cultural symbols images in the nation building of eurasian states that emerged out of the former soviet union it particularly focuses on the cases of uzbekistan and kazakhstan in the post soviet era and argues that the relationship between nation and image building has been particularly relevant for eurasian states in an increasingly globalized world nation state building is no longer an activity confined to the domestic arena the situating of the state within the global space and its image in the international community nation branding becomes in many ways as crucial as the projection of homogeneity within the state the relationship between politics and cultural symbols images therefore acquires and represents multiple possibilities it is these possibilities that are the focus of symbols and the image of the state in eurasia it argues that the relationship between politics and cultural symbols images became particularly relevant for states that emerged in the wake of the disintegration of the soviet union in central asia it extends the argument further to contend that the image that the state projects is largely determined by its legacy and it attempts to do this by taking into account the uzbek and kazakh cases in the shaping of the post soviet future these legacies and projections as well as the policy implications of these projections in terms of governmentality and foreign policy have been decisive
