between 1830 and 1914 in britain a dramatic modification of the reputation of edmund burke 1730 1797 occurred burke an irishman and whig politician is now most commonly known as the founder of modern conservatism an intellectual tradition which is also deeply connected to the identity of the british conservative party the idea of burkean conservatism a political philosophy which upholds the authority of tradition the organic historic conception of society and the necessity of order religion and property has been incredibly influential both in international academic analysis and in the wider political world this is a highly significant intellectual construct but its origins have not yet been understood emily jones demonstrates for the first time that the transformation of burke into the founder of conservatism was in fact part of wider developments in british political intellectual and cultural history in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries drawing from a wide range of sources including political texts parliamentary speeches histories biographies and educational curricula edmund burke and the invention of modern conservatism shows how and why burke s reputation was transformed over a formative period of british history in doing so it bridges the significant gap between the history of political thought as conventionally understood and the history of the making of political traditions the result is to demonstrate that by 1914 burke had been firmly established as a conservative political philosopher and was admired and utilized by political conservatives in britain who identified themselves as his intellectual heirs this was one essential component of a conscious re working of c conservatism which is still at work today
