brings together a collection of key scholars who have been at the fore of empirical and practice work in relation to understanding how public criminology can engender academic activism split into two parts it focusses on academic activism and research methodologies and public criminology and pedagogical practice it includes chapters on a range of topics including inside out teaching it discusses the role of social scientists and stepping outside of established research practices and how students the public and children can be engaged in criminological learning and issues to become agents of social change it includes a reflection on how public criminology has developed both in the uk and usa it speaks to students researchers and academics alike involved in teaching and learning within the discipline of criminology and those who wish to evaluate practice and ensure their interventions have impact on commissioners and policymakers explores how religious travel in india is transforming religious identities and self constructions in an increasingly global world where convenient modes of travel have opened the door to international and intraregional tourism and brought together people from different religious and ethnic communities religious journeying in india has become the site of evolving and often paradoxical forms of self construction through ethnographic reflections the contributors to this volume explore religious and nonreligious motivations for religious travel in india and show how pilgrimages missionary travel the exportation of cultural art forms and leisure travel among coreligionists are transforming not only religious but also regional national transnational and personal identities the volume engages with central themes in south asian studies such as gender exile and spirituality a variety of religions including sikhism islam buddhism and christianity and understudied regions and emerging places of pilgrimage such as manipur and maharashtra andrea marion pinkney is associate professor of south asian religions at mcgill university john whalen bridge is associate professor of english at the national university of singapore he is the coeditor with gary storhoff of many books including the emergence of buddhist american literature american buddhism as a way of life writing as enlightenment buddhist american literature into the twenty first century and buddhism and american cinema all published by suny press he is also the author of tibet on fire buddhism protest and the rhetoric of self immolation groups in contact the psychology of desegregation uses the contact hypothesis as a point of departure and provides new data obtained in a variety of social contexts the contact hypothesis states that attitudes toward a disliked social group will become more positive with increased interpersonal interaction the various chapters provide a picture of the desegregation process as a complex interplay between the cognitive processes within the individual and the structural features of the social environment what emerges is an expanded theory of contact based on social categorization and social comparison processes the book is organized into three parts the chapters in part i deal with issues of intergroup contact in a wide range of cultures and settings each focusing on a particular social or political factor that influences receptivity to intergroup interaction and affects its outcomes the chapters in part ii review the effects of specific interventions that have been introduced into desegregation settings with the intent of improving intergroup acceptance in those settings part iii provides a systematic integration of the preceding chapters within a common theoretical framework although this book is written primarily from the perspective of social psychology it is intended for students of intergroup relations in all disciplines it was also written with policymakers as well as social science researchers in mind from the courtroom to the classroom examines recent developments pertaining to school desegregation in the united states as the editors note it comes at a time marked by a general downplaying of race and ethnicity as criteria for the allocation of public resources as well as a weakening of the political forces that support busing to achieve racial integration the book fills a growing need for a full scale assessment of this recent history and its effect on schools children and communities the success of the renewable energy programme which was initiated in the islands in the early 1990s has been so remarkable that the sundarbans may be considered a rather unique hub of stand alone renewable energy systems renewable energy in the sundarbans provides a detailed insight into this programme edited by two leading authors in the field the third edition of this text offers a comprehensive view of multicultural education it addresses the needs of readers from both gender groups various social classes religions and ethnic and cultural groups combining classic articles that have been key markers in recent debates with some new material this book addresses the problems involved in educational research and the issues surrounding its contribution to policymaking and practice the authors examine the diverse approaches within qualitative research and address some of the key areas which have attracted criticism they consider what role research should play and examine the case for randomised controlled trials and for action research the book is suitable for any undergraduate or postgraduate student concerned with educational research methodology as well as those focusing on educational policy and practice and students doing phds and edds this is the most comprehensive guide to the current uses and importance of case study methods in social research the editors bring together key contributions from the field which reflect different interpretations of the purpose and capacity of case study research the address issues such as the problem of generalizing from study of a small number of cases and the role of case study in developing and testing theories the editors offer in depth assessments of the main arguments an annotated bibliography of the literature dealing with case study research makes this an exhaustive and indispensable guide this is a worthwhile book which will be useful to readers it collects together key sources o the definitive handbook on peer relations bewildered policy makers reframing prostitution explores several aspects of this multidimensional phenomenon examining different ways in which prostitution is and was being practised in di fferent places and di fferent times best practices in the regulation of prostitution as well as wider social and psychological issues such as the construction of prostitution as incivility or of prostitutes as a socially problematic group or as victimised individuals the book also addresses normative questions with respect to policy making unmasking the purposes behind certain societal reactions towards prostitution as well as proposing innovative solutions that could reconcile societal fears of exploitation and abuse while meeting the rights and needs of individuals voluntarily involved in prostitution with contributions across social science disciplines this international collection presents a valuable discussion on the importance of empirical studies in various segments of prostitution highlights social contexts around it and challenges regulatory responses that frame our thinking about prostitution promoting fresh debate about future policy directions in this area the chapters in this book outline the history and scope of educational research they also discuss many of the major issues at stake in current debates and exemplify the contrasting perspectives to be found in the literature this is the companion volume to educational research in action edited by roger gomm and peter woods it is one of two course readers for the open university course e824 educational research methods this open university text part of the mapping social psychology series examines the processes involved when a group of people make a decision or take action together children s peer culture as it is nourished in those spaces where grownups cannot penetrate stands between individual children and the larger adult society as such it is a mediator and shaper influencing the way children collectively interpret their surroundings and deal with the common problems they face this text provides a solid intellectual grounding in the area of qualitative research it examines theoretical underpinnings methodological perspectives and empirical approaches this book discusses how to collect data and analyze databases in order to map risk zones and contributes to developing a conceptual framework for coastal risk assessment further the book primarily focuses on a specific case study the bay of bengal along the southeastern coast of india the dramatic rise in losses and casualties due to natural disasters like wind storm surge induced flooding seismic hazards and tsunami incidence along this coast over the past few decades has prompted a major national scientific initiative investigating the probable causes and possible mitigation strategies as such geoscientists are called upon to analyze the coastal hazards by anticipating the changes in and impacts of extreme weather hazards on the bay of bengal coasts as a result of global climate change and local sea level change as in past volumes the current volume of advances in clinical child psychology strives for a broad range of timely topics on the study and treatment of children adolescents and families volume 18 includes a new array of contributions covering issues pertaining to treatment etiology and psychosocial context the first two contributions address conduct problems using qualitative research methods webster stratton and spitzer take a unique look at what it is like to be a parent of a young child with conduct problems as well as what it is like to be a participant in a parent training program chamberlain presents research on residential and foster care treatment for adolescents with conduct disorder as these chapters well reflect webster stratton spitzer and chamberlain are all veterans of programmatic research on treatment of child and adolescent conduct problems wills and filer describe an emerging stress coping model that has been applied to adolescent substance use and is empirically well justified this model has implications for furthering intervention strategies as well as enhancing our scientific understanding of adolescents and the development of substance abuse foster martinez and kulberg confront the issue that researchers face pertaining to race and ethnicity as it relates to our understanding of peer relations this chapter addresses some of the measurement and conceptual challenges relative to assessing ethnic variables and relating these to social cognitions of peers friendship patterns and peer acceptance the social economic and political contexts in which development projects in india are implemented and consequences to people displaced by such projects are analyzed in this book development displacement resettlement and rehabilitation processes related to three major reservoir bases irrigation and power projects and three major industrial projects are studied the role of the state international agencies and the private industrial sector in promoting development and managing rehabilitation of the displaced people is assessed and the author proposes a framework for a comprehensive policy on development displacement and rehabilitation the chapters presented here provide the reader with an awareness of the divergent views of what constitutes racism and frameworks for reducing it this book points out that the dialogue and research on this subject since the mid 1970s have yielded increased controversy over the theories foundation and continued existence of racism ironically what we viewed in the 1954 brown decision and the civil rights act of 1964 as the beginning of the end of racism turned out to be the beginning of confusion over the course of action to ensure societal acceptance of political mandates hence the title of this book captures the essence of the emotional core of any forum for examining racism past and present one of the most controversial forums has been that of education beginning with the d s supreme court s 1954 ruling in brown v board of education behind every event that has spawned controversy is a profile in courage it was not a simple decision for the players in the scenario of the brown v board of education case to step forward and present themselves as evidence of discrimination blackparents supported by black organizations viewed this legal action as a chance for equal opportunity yet the 1950s were a time when black communities were pained by the thought that bigotry and institutional racism would forever stand in the way of their achieving equality the research on women and education sig of the american educational research association presents the third book in its series gender and early learning environments finding after the publication of gender and schooling in the early years the second book in the series that there was and is a paucity of published literature on early childhood gender issues the editors determined that one additional book on early childhood and gender issues was warranted in this series the latest book in the series gender and early learning environments is encompassing of a wide range of topics addressing early childhood influences on gender and development of the whole child for early childhood educators this book aides in making visible and exploring the definition of what gender means in contemporary culture this book is an ideal text for advanced level courses on prejudice and or prejudice and discrimination or as a supplement in social psych and dev psych courses it will feature a new chap on the influence of peers parents and personality on prejudice provides students and scholars with a valuable reference source in the field of american politics the companion will equip readers with a deep understanding of the complex interaction between governmental institutions and processes and the wider american economy and society that they govern this book is collection of 25 research papers articles focused on different aspect indigenous health care practices among different population group of different part of india romania and pacific regions like australia polynesia and melanesia the ethno medicine used among various populations for cure of different ailments are recorded and documented in many of the papers articles included in the book beside that knowledge attitude and practice related to different kind of health care is also highlighted in various primitive groups the supernatural causes and practices are the part of health care the impact of modernization industrialization and globalization has both positive and negative impact on indigenous knowledge and many such practices are Peer Power 2002-03-19 the chapters presented here provide the reader with an awareness of the divergent views of what constitutes racism and frameworks for reducing it this book points out that the dialogue and research on this subject since the mid 1970s have yielded increased controversy over the theories foundation and continued existence of racism ironically what we viewed in the 1954 brown decision and the civil rights act of 1964 as the beginning of the end of racism turned out to be the beginning of confusion over the course of action to ensure societal acceptance of political mandates hence the title of this book captures the essence of the emotional core of any forum for examining racism past and present one of the most controversial forums has been that of education beginning with the d s supreme court s 1954 ruling in brown v board oi education behind every event that has spawned controversy is a profile in courage it was not a simple decision for the players in the scenario of the brown v board oi education case to step forward and present themselves as evidence of discrimination black parents supported by black organizations viewed this legal action as a chance for equal opportunity yet the 1950s were a time when black communities were pained by the thought that bigotry and institutional racism would forever stand in the way of their achieving equality

The Qualitative Researcher's Companion 2018-03-22 the research on women and education sig of the american educational research association presents the third book in its series gender and early learning environments finding after the publication of gender and schooling in the early years the second book in the series that there was and is a paucity of published literature on early childhood gender issues the editors determined that one additional book on early childhood and gender issues was warranted in this series the latest book in the series gender and early learning environments is encompassing of a wide range of topics addressing early childhood influences on gender and development of the whole child for early childhood educators this book aides in making visible and exploring the definition of what gender means in contemporary culture
