this booker prize short listed dark satire of 20th century irish society is back in print is it possible to kill with kindness as molly keane s booker prize short listed dark comedy suggests not only can kindness be deadly it just may be the best form of revenge the novel opens as aroon st charles prepares to serve her invalid mother a splendid luncheon the silver gleams the linens glow of rabbit mousse a dish her mother despises in fact a single whiff of the stuff is enough to knock the old lady dead all my life so far i have done everything for the best reasons and the most unselfish motives says aroon soon after in the pages that follow she will make her case reminiscing about her youth among the hunting and fishing classes of ireland a faded aristocracy dedicated to distraction even as their fortunes dwindle keane s brilliant sleight of hand is to allow her blinkered heroine to narrate her own development from neglected child to ungainly debutante to bitter spinster aroon understands nothing yet she reveals all south carolina on their way to visit their uncle in adelaide mary and her younger brother peter set out on foot lost in the vast hot australian outback they are saved by a chance meeting with an unnamed aboriginal boy on walkabout he looks after the two strange white children and shows them how to find food and water in the wilderness and yet for all that mary is filled with distrust on the surface walkabout is an adventure story but darker themes lie beneath peter s innocent friendship with the boy met in the desert throws into relief mary s half adult anxieties and the book as a whole raises questions about what is lost and may be saved when different worlds meet and in reading marshall s extraordinary evocations of the beautiful yet forbidding landscape of the australian desert perhaps the most striking presence of all in this small perfect book we realize that this tale a deep yet disturbing story in the spirit of adalbert stifter s rock crystal and richard hughes s a high wind in jamaica is also a reckoning with the mysteriously regenerative powers of death
