excerpt from history and civics grade 5b fifth year second half this book like its 5a companion aims to cover one term s work in history and civics it combines also the same advantages viz economy of time and definiteness economy of time is secured by the arrangement in lessons with due regard for the amount of time at the teacher s disposal and the ability of the average pupil definiteness is obtained by the side notes which help the pupil to get the thought and by the summaries and questions at the end of each lesson which call the pupil s attention to what is essential in the lesson learned b substitute teachers taking the place of absent teachers may continue the teaching of history from the point where the regular teacher left off they may make definite progress and hand the class back to the teacher up to grade in this subject c maps and illustrations have been inserted profusely for history cannot be studied properly without a clear knowledge of the place setting of events the teacher should supplement these maps as far as possible by the use of wall maps and by appropriate pictures culled from newspapers and magazines pupils will be glad to help in this and it is a good way to stimulate their interest in the subject the nature of the subject matter in this grade makes it impossible to use the biographical method entirely yet it has been used whenever possible this is as it should be for to weave the narratives of men s lives into a history gives it living interest it is a method that points out the virtues of good men for emulation and teaches that the ways of the wicked and worthless often lead to failure and destruction about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works as former elementary school teachers the authors focus on what is possible in schools rather than a romantic vision of what schools could be based on a 5 year study of an elementary school this book shows how civic engagement can be purposive and critical a way to encourage young people to examine their environment to notice and question injustices and to take action to make a difference in their communities and school focusing on the intersection of student voice and critical inquiry the book describes how to embed civic engagement into curriculum school decision making processes and whole school activities chapters provide an overview of what research has demonstrated about civic engagement at the classroom school and community levels including detailed descriptions of activities and lessons for practice classroom teachers school principals community members and teacher educators can use this resource to foster a deeper richer understanding of what is entailed in civic life book features a vivid portrait of a typical public school that wants to do more than teach to the test an examination of the conditions that enable young people to participate in democratic practices including identifying and questioning injustices concrete examples of student voice and critical inquiry in classroom contexts practices and activities that encourage children to get along with others exchange perspectives and work across differences offers a suggestive range of evidence that high quality civic engagement initiatives can enhance students academic social and emotional engagement it reveals the nitty gritty of how experienced teachers can enable children who are immersed in meaningful civic work also to engage more deeply with mathematical problem solving peer collaboration literacy and social studies learning and development of empathy and mutual trust from the foreword by meira levinson mitra and serriere show us not only that elementary aged children are capable of civic engagement but how such engagement can be nurtured in the classroom children can be active civic participants this book demonstrates both the power of this idea and how we might accomplish this essential task beth c rubin rutgers university sound democratic decisions rely on a citizenry with at least a partial mastery of the rules and workings of democratic government american high schools where students learn the basics of citizenship thus ought to play a critical role in the success of democracy yet studies examining the impact of high school government and civics courses on political knowledge over the past quarter century have generally shown that these courses have little or no effect in this important book richard g niemi and jane junn take a fresh look at what america s high school seniors know about government and politics and how they learn it the authors argue convincingly that secondary school civics courses do indeed enhance students civic knowledge this book is based on the most extensive assessment to date of civic knowledge among american youth the 1988 national assessment of education progress naep civics assessment the authors develop and test a theoretical model to explain the cognitive process by which students learn about politics and they conclude by suggesting specific changes in the style and emphasis of civics teaching
