south africa s provincial education departments have been reduced to provincial administrations for reasons that include the powerful role national government plays in delivering education services this book looks in detail at education spending and asks can we afford to maintain administrations that cannot possibly change the course of poor quality education and engineer a brighter future for our poor and deprived learners the authors believe this question and the future role of provincial education departments need to be discussed openly and publicly without delay

south africa is urbanising rapidly and its economic landscape is continuously changing as a consequence in this context city governments and urban scientists have long called for better access to city economic data the national treasury has reinforced this demand insisting that intra city economic data is critical in order to improve planning performance and investment in south africa s cities a wealth of data is collected by the south african revenue service sars in the course of its routine operations assessing the tax obligations of companies and individual taxpayers in addition to its bureaucratic purpose this data represents an enormous potential resource for a detailed understanding of the urban economy until recently this resource has been underutilised because it was not available in an anonymised and geocoded form at a practical level however the significant amount of energy and time required to access clean and align administrative datasets to make them usable is not generally understood this gcro occasional paper presents an ethnographic account of a decade long journey in city economic data collation by the author who as a long term technical advisor to the national treasury s government technical advisory centre gtac led the work on the city economic data programme in support of the first phase of the national treasury s cities support programme csp after observing the critical need for anonymised and geocoded economic administrative data in policy formulation and urban research this paper examines the reasons for the limited availability of datasets able to show the location of economic activity and employment at a disaggregated local level the paper details how the national treasury s collaboration with the world bank in 2016 to produce the urbanisation review of south africa stimulated and directed the efforts of gtac and the economies of regions learning network erln to pursue official sources of city level administrative data the paper goes on to recount subsequent national treasury csp collaborations with statistics south africa sars and the unemployment insurance fund uif to collect and collate anonymised and geocoded city economic data from sources other than national general surveys despite progress these efforts were ultimately stymied due to practical and governance constraints nevertheless in a parallel process these collaborations ultimately bore fruit in the establishment of a secure administrative data centre at the national treasury that stores anonymised data which can then be geocoded using postal codes this secure data centre in turn after the author had left the process ultimately provided a foundation for the milestone publication of the 2021 city spatial economic data reports the paper concludes by reflecting on the insights from this ethnographic account around possibilities for improving the integrity of the city spatial economic data resource and enhancing its use in credible evidence based urban analysis first these conclusions highlight broader institutional and public management concerns in the current governance environment on which future steps to improve the city spatial economic data will depend second the paper points out that despite the long journey travelled business classification uncertainty still remains solving these governance and data puzzles may further enhance the incredible potential that such a rich data resource holds for evidence based policy aimed at creating a more just and equal society in south africa development in modern africa past and present perspectives contributes to our understanding of africa s experiences with the development process it does so by adopting a historical and contemporary analysis of this experience the book is set within the context of critiques on development in africa that have yielded two general categories of analysis skepticism and pessimism while not overlooking the shortcomings of development the themes in the book express an optimistic view of africa s development experiences highlighting elements that can be tapped into to enhance the condition of african populations and their states by using case studies from precolonial colonial and postcolonial africa contributors to the volume demonstrate that human instincts to improve material social and spiritual words are universal they are not limited to the western world which the term and process of development are typically associated with before and after contact with the west africans have actively created institutions and values that they have actively employed to improve individual and community lives this innovative spirit has motivated africans to integrate or experiment with new values and structures challenges and solutions to human welfare that resulted from contact with colonialism and the postcolonial global community the book will be of interest to academics in the fields of history african studies and regional studies the african national congress is light years beyond the liberation movement of old it remains a juggernaut but its control and dominance are no longer watertight the anc lives the contradictions of weaknesses cracks and factions while retaining its colossal status as a party movement it draws on its liberation credentials and extracts immense power from its deep anchorage in south africa s people it is immersed in electoral politics that marks the state of its overwhelming power cyclically as government the anc is the object of protest but not protest designed to bring the ruling party to its knees the anc is in command of the state yet fails to definitively counter the deficits that make south africa s democracy seem so diluted its incredulous and thus far trusting supporters condemn but only rarely punish deployees who do not pass through the eye of the needle the anc and the regeneration of political power unpacks these contradictions it focuses on four faces of the anc s political power the organisation the people political parties and elections and policy and government and explores how the anc has acted since 1994 to continuously regenerate its power by 2011 12 the power configurations around the anc were converging to a conjuncture holding vexing uncertainties this book presents insights into how south african politics in many ways synonymous with the politics of the anc is likely to unfold in years and possibly decades to come this book details how the water quality of the blesbokspruit river in gauteng south africa was socially constructed by stakeholders and key individuals in the context of acid mine drainage amd and its treatment social constructionism is used as the framing for this research to explain how water is intrinsically social findings presented here show that stakeholders are aware that the changes in the physicality of the blesbokspruit resulted from human interventions and varied uses of the water over the years such knowledge among factors such as the historical context of mining current coal mining flows and volumes of water technology used and processes followed information and communication and vested interests influence social constructions of the water quality what counts as the truth about water varies depending on the individual s perspective their purpose and their individual interests further how one defines water quality influences what treatment processes are preferred in order to improve water quality the book explains why for example a treatment process meant to improve water quality gained a bad reputation by the public because of the south african government s silo approach the book explains how these social constructions are entrenched in power relations between stakeholders regarding amd treatment and illustrates how power was used to influence decisions to improve the water quality of the blesbokspruit the case presented in this book offers insights and recommendations for policymakers working in water governance including means to influence social constructions of water quality and ways to clarify roles and responsibilities in pursuit of improved cooperative government countries which take spatial planning seriously should take planning law and property rights also seriously there is an unavoidable logical relationship between planning law and property rights however planning by law and property rights is so familiar and taken for granted that we do not think about the theory behind it as a result we do not think abstractly about its strengths and weaknesses about what can be achieved with it and what not how it can be improved how it could be complemented such reflections are essential to cope with current and future challenges to spatial planning this book makes the often implicit theory behind planning by law and property rights explicit and relates it to those challenges it starts by setting out what is understood by planning by law and property rights and investigates theoretically and by game simulation the relationships between planning law and property rights it then places planning law and property rights within their institutional setting at three different scales when a country undergoes enormous social and political change when there is fundamental political debate about the power of the state within a country and when a country changes its legislation in response to european policy not only changing institutions but also global environmental change pose huge challenges for spatial planning the book discusses how planning by law and property rights can respond to those challenges by adaptive planning by adaptable property rights and by public policies at the appropriate geographical level planning by law and property rights can fix a local regime of property rights which turns out to be inappropriate but difficult to change it questions whether such regimes can be changed and whether planning agencies can make such undesirable lock ins less likely by reducing market uncertainty and if so by what means
