fundamental world changes that simultaneously undermine a nation state s charisma and promote the rise of a supra national system have wide ranging effects upon national states within a modern global society my dissertation empirically examines the effects of social and cultural globalization on systems of mass schooling which are central institutions in every country globally primary and secondary education initially emerged as the premier tool for nation states to create a unified national citizenry loyal to their country and socialized into a common cultural tradition i examine the extent to which this original nationalizing purpose of schooling is challenged by the increased emphases on universal human rights and diversity in civic education the analyses consist of two sections hierarchical linear models are used to analyze a unique primary data source of 521 social science textbooks from 74 countries during the period 1970 2008 these findings show a worldwide increase in emphasis on human rights and increases in discussions of diversity in well established liberal democracies cross national quantitative analyses are complemented by a qualitative case study of social science curricula in british columbia bc which examines nation building within a context of strong emphasis on diversity and human rights the bc study utilizes currently approved high school citizenship education textbooks as well as older textbooks dating back to 1871 it also draws on a selection of historical documents including ministry of education reports curricular frameworks and high school exit exams process wise i find the incorporation of human rights and diversity reflects macro level changes in national and global society content wise i find four main approaches to reconciling ideas of human rights and diversity with national identity 1 framing human rights and multiculturalism as part of national identity 2 using pedagogical approaches that promote multiple perspectives and individual agency 3 celebrating social and scientific figures and accomplishments as the source of national pride and 4 drawing on exogenous sources to affirm state legitimacy this study is one of the first to theorize that civic education worldwide is moving away from a national focus and to provide empirical evidence of this trend a key implication is that educational systems are being repurposed from their original goal of constructing a unitary national citizenry to a new view emphasizing human diversity and equality in a globally interconnected world further students are increasingly taught that the global civil society and non state actors are important and legitimate agents of social change during the half century preceding widespread school integration black north carolinians engaged in a dramatic struggle for equal educational opportunity as segregated schooling flourished drawing on archival records and oral histories sarah thuesen gives voice to students parents teachers school officials and civic leaders to reconstruct this high stakes drama she explores how african americans pressed for equality in curricula higher education teacher salaries and school facilities how white officials co opted equalization as a means of forestalling integration and finally how black activism for equality evolved into a fight for something greater than equal integrated schools that served as models of civic inclusion these battles persisted into the brown era mobilized black communities narrowed material disparities fostered black school pride and profoundly shaped the eventual movement for desegregation thuesen emphasizes that the remarkable achievements of this activism should not obscure the inherent limitations of a fight for equality in a segregated society in fact these unresolved struggles are emblematic of fault lines that developed across the south and serve as an urgent reminder of the inextricable connections between educational equality racial diversity and the achievement of first class citizenship drawing on 15 months of ethnographic research in one of the most under developed regions in the caribbean island of trinidad this book describes the uses and consequences of social media for its residents jolynna sinanan argues that this semi urban town is a place in between somewhere city dwellers look down on and villagers look up to the complex identity of the town is expressed through uses of social media with significant results for understanding social media more generally not elevating oneself above others is one of the core values of the town and social media becomes a tool for social visibility that is the process of how social norms come to be and how they are negotiated carnival logic and high impact visuality is pervasive in uses of social media even if carnival is not embraced by all trinidadians in the town and results in presenting oneself and association with different groups in varying ways the study also has surprising results in how residents are explicitly non activist and align themselves with everyday values of maintaining good relationships in a small town rather than espousing more worldly or cosmopolitan values
