the graphical user interface gui as the most prevailing type of user interface ui in today s interactive applications restricts the interaction with a computer to the visual modality and is therefore not suited for some users e g with limited literacy or typing skills in some circumstances e.g. while moving around with their hands or eyes busy or when the environment is constrained e.g. the keyboard and the mouse are not available in order to go beyond the GUI constraints the multimodal MMUIs appear as a paradigm that provides users with great expressive power, naturalness and flexibility. In this thesis we argue that developing MMUIs combining graphical and vocal modalities is an activity that could benefit from the application of a methodology which is composed of a set of models, a method of manipulating these models and the tools implementing the method. Therefore we define a design space based method that is supported by model-to-model colored transformations in order to obtain MMUIs of information systems. The design space is composed of explicitly defined design options that clarify the development process in a structured way in order to require less design effort. The feasibility of the methodology is demonstrated through three case studies with different levels of complexity and coverage. In addition, an empirical study is conducted with end users in order to measure the relative usability level provided by different design decisions.

The book Visser's Annotated European Patent Convention is a commentary on the European Patent Convention and a bestseller in European patent law. Each year a new updated edition of the book is published and available in paperback form. The 2019 edition of this preeminent work is the only regularly updated authoritative article-by-article commentary in English on the European Patent Convention (EPC), its implementing regulations, and associated case law. It provides the complete text of the 2000 Convention, annotated with commentary and expert guidance on the interpretation of each paragraph. Since its first edition in 1994, it has provided the European patent community with the necessary insights to practice successfully before the European Patent Office (EPO). The EPO recommends the Visser's Annotated European Patent Convention as the first book in its list of non-EPO/WIPO literature to be used for the preparation of the European Qualifying Examination. In addition to a thorough updating of developments, new material in this edition includes the following: new rules of procedure of the Boards of Appeal; new EPO Guidelines that enter into force on 01/11/2019; the references to Guidelines
