postcards individually and collectively contain a great deal of information that can be of real value to students and researchers postcards in the library gives compelling reasons why libraries should take a far more active and serious interest in establishing and maintaining postcard collections and in encouraging the use of these collections it explains the nature and accessibility of existing postcard collections techniques for acquiring arranging preserving and handling collections and ways to make researchers and patrons aware of these collections postcards in the library asserts that in most cases existing postcard collections are a vastly underutilized scholarly resource editor norman d stevens urges librarians to help change this since postcards as items for mass consumption and often with no apparent conscious literary or social purpose are a true reflection of the society in which they were produced stevens claims that messages written on postcards may also reveal a great deal about individual and or societal attitudes and ideas chapters in postcards in the library are written by librarians who manage postcard collections postcard collectors and researchers some of the authors have undertaken major research projects that demonstrate the ways in which postcards can be used in research and that have begun to establish a standard methodology for the analysis of postcards they write about major postcard collections including the institute of deltiology and the curt teich postcard archives the use of postcards for scholarly research postcard conservation and preservation arrangement and organization and importance and value postcards in the library describes the postcard collections in a variety of libraries of different kinds and sizes and indicates very real ways in which the effective use of postcard collections can result in and contribute to substantive scholarly publications it also offers advice and suggestions on the myriad issues that libraries face in handling these ephemeral fragments of popular culture special collections librarians postcard collectors postcard dealers and historical societies will find the information in postcards in the library refreshing and practical libraries with established postcard collections or those thinking about developing postcard collections will use it as a valuable planning tool and start to finish guide

Leeds, sited in the heart of West Yorkshire, is the UK's third largest city and is home to a community rich in history, ambition, and achievement as the financial, cultural, and commercial heart of West Yorkshire. Leeds is a city essential to the global economic system, although only a small borough for much of its existence. Leeds in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries became a key centre for the production and trading of wool. As the industrial revolution progressed, Leeds developed into a major industrial hub, extending its reach into engineering, printing, commerce, health, and education. Iron foundries were among other industries of extreme importance. The city then expanded, absorbing many of the surrounding villages and townships to become the urban city we see today, combining cultural riches with strong transport and communication links. It continues to attract students, entrepreneurs, and professionals, not only to visit but often to relocate to this vibrant part of West Yorkshire. The authors have charted the area's great past and the enormous changes that have taken place through a selection of fascinating and inspiring old postcards

There is perhaps no better visual record of Route 66's iconic sites than the thousands of illustrated and photographic postcards that have been produced over the years to promote the mother road's motels, hotels, tourist traps, trading posts, bustling burgs, greasy spoons, and natural wonders. This massive collection gathers together more than 400 of the finest examples of postcard art from Route 66's golden age, the 1930s through the mid-1960s, an era before long-distance car travel was largely supplanted by the airlines. Route 66 historian Joe Sonderman has curated the very best out of his 20,000-card archive to document a journey down the mother road through the decades, state by state, from east to west. Visit landmark stops like the Rock Village Court, the Meramec Caverns, Mule Trading Post, and Wigwam Village in cities that include Chicago, Springfield, Amarillo, Tucumcari, Flagstaff, Barstow, Santa Monica, and many, many more. The fruit of Sonderman's labor is the definitive book collection of Route 66 postcards. Postcards from Route 66 is a valuable visual reference.

bcala 2023 outstanding contribution to publishing citation award winner the turn of the twentieth century was an extraordinarily difficult period for african americans a time of unchecked lynchings mob attacks and rampant jim crow segregation during these bleak years emma crawford a young african american woman living in pennsylvania corresponded by postcard with friends and family members and collected the cards she received from all over the country her album spanning from 1906 to 1910 and analyzed in emma s postcard album becomes an entry point into a deeply textured understanding of the nuances and complexities of african american lives and the survival strategies that enabled people to make a way from no way as snippets of lived experience eye catching visual images and reflections of historical moments the cards in the collection become sources for understanding not only african american life but also broader american history and culture in emma s postcard album faith mitchell innovatively places the contents of this postcard collection into specific historic and biographical contexts and provides a new interpretation of postcards as life writings a much neglected aspect of scholarship through these techniques a riveting world that is far too little known is revealed and new insights are gained into the perspectives and experience of african americans capping off these contributions the text is a visual feast illustrated with arresting images from the golden age of postcards as well as newspaper clippings and other archival material
