excerpt from the reformed reformation this work has been published to meet a desire by some of the ministers of the reformed church for more material on the reformed side of the reformation which they might use in the observance of the quarto centenary of the reformation we therefore give less space to the lutheran side of the reformation especially as the material on that side of the reformation is more abundant and besides the lutherans to their credit be it said have been exploiting luther more than the reformed have been doing for zwingli or calvin where we have treated of both sides of the reformation we have tried to give the lutheran side fairly but we have given the facts as they stand today we have no desire to minimize luther but to give him all due credit for the greatness of his work but luther is not the whole of the reformation and the reformed should receive their fair recognition we have also endeavored to utilize the latest discoveries in the history of the reformation and also the latest publications of and on that period this has placed somethings in a new light the reformed and presbyterian churches are especially interested in all this as they have come directly from zwingli through calvin and we trust that they will find this work helpful for the observance of this anniversary we only regret the shortness of time that we have had in which to prepare it so as to get it out before 1917 and we regret our inability on account of the war to get to zurich so as to get hold of more of the original sources though our own large library on the reformed church of switzerland has given much that this book may have a share however small in making this anniversary a great inspiration and blessing to our churches is the wish of the author about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to christians do not always mean the same thing when they speak of the church what is held about the nature of the church is of great importance because it is intimately connected with what is held about the nature of christ the purpose of this book is to present the reformed tradition on the subject at the outset the author gives a brief sketch of the four main traditions within the reformation heritage lutheran anglican that of the separatists and the reformed the study includes an examination of the medieval background an exposition of calvin s doctrine of the church and an extended account of the development of thought on the subject in the church of scotland with special reference to the contributions of the scottish divines of the seventeenth century dr macgregor analyzes the greek term ekklesia and then presents the doctrine of baptism as meaning incorporation by the holy spirit into the body of christ he also deals extensively with the subject of the eucharist as well as the development of the corporate episcopate in the reformed church the doctrine of the ministry is expounded and some controversial questions considered including questions about the nature of the eldership the final chapter reviews the whole conception of the church as the body of christ macgregor concludes that the reformed doctrine of the church is based soundly on scripture and the classic definitions of the person of christ and that the only ground for unity in the church is christ himself the church exists where the word is preached and the sacraments are celebrated and where it calls men to discipline and to service scholarly footnotes are given on almost every page and two appendices are provided one contains passages in latin illustrating the teaching of st augustine on christ as the head and the church as the body the other contains extracts in latin french and english from ten confessional documents beginning with the augsburg confession 1530 and extending to the westminster confession 1647 there is also an extended bibliography and a topical index this book is an excellent resource for ministers teachers and students alike excerpt from the theology of the reformed church in its fundamental principles the volume now published consists of a course of six lectures delivered by the late professor hastie in the tron church of edinburgh in the spring of 1892 by the delivery of the lectures he fulfilled one indispensable condition of tenure of the croall lectureship the publication of them is however an equally indispensable condition although the term of publication is to some extent a matter of arrangement between the lecturer and the members of the trust at the time of dr hastie s delivery of his course of lectures he had other literary work either in contemplation or in hand and his appointment to the glasgow chair of divinity in 1895 led to longer delay of the publication of his croall lectures as he naturally enough desired to utilise them for class work and also for a closer and more comprehensive study of the subject of them about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
