also known as free tuition and free college programs college promise programs are an emerging approach for increasing higher education attainment of people in particular places to maximize the effectiveness of their efforts and investments program leaders and policymakers need research based evidence to inform program design implementation and evaluation with the goal of addressing this knowledge need this volume presents a collection of research studies that examine several categories and variations of college promise programs these theoretically grounded empirical investigations use varied data sources and analytic techniques to examine the effects of college promise programs that have different design features and operate in different places individually and collectively the results of these studies have implications for the design and implementation of promise programs if these programs are to create meaningful improvements in attainment for people from underserved groups the authors efforts also provide a useful foundation for the next generation of college promise research

the composition of the american population is rapidly changing from a white male dominated society to one that is so diverse it will soon be without any single dominant race ethnicity or gender the dramatic demographic shifts in american society have provoked many false claims and distortions of facts that have fueled demagoguery as occurred during the 2016 presidential campaign access to unvarnished facts about people different than you but who are becoming your neighbors is more critical now than ever this book in full color was created to provide a single source of easily accessible facts obtained primarily from u s government agencies comparing characteristics of race ethnicity and gender in graphic format to enhance comprehension as only visual presentations can achieve virtually all major socio economic topics are covered including geographic distribution of populations birth rates health wealth poverty income employment crime incarcerations social behaviors education and political preferences included are past and future trends for many characteristics as are comparisons between foreign born natural citizens legal and undocumented immigrants special features socio economic characteristics between races ethnicities and genders in america comparisons include health education wealth poverty income employment crime incarcerations social behaviors geographic distributions and political preferences includes foreign born and natural citizens lawful and undocumented immigrants all data are graphically displayed for easy visualization and comprehension attributed sources for all data include web addresses to enable additional research only factual data are presented without editorial comments or opinions interesting facts found in america s diverse population include more than one in eight persons residing in the u s in 2015 were born elsewhere approximately one in four persons with green cards resided in california in 2013 over three million temporary workers were admitted into the u s in 2014 in 2009 over two thirds of convictions of undocumented immigrants were for violations of immigration law and two percent for crimes against persons approximately one of three black or african american children live in households with both married parents compared with ninety five percent of asian households in 2013 one of eight high school age hispanic or latino females reported they were forced to have sex in 2015 ninety seven percent of kindergarten teachers were women approximately one half of all maids and housekeeping cleaners in 2015 were hispanic or latino women in 2015 almost one in four asian females held a master s degree the highest rate of any race or ethnicity in 2013 the number of non hispanic white children in the u s grades k 8 fell below fifty percent of students for the first time in the mid nineties the alfred glickman school was just another failing school in one of america s most violent cities then sabis a private for profit education provider took over twenty years later the school is a six time silver medalist in u s news world report s annual america s best high schools listing and every single graduate of the school has been offered a college place with success of this magnitude you would think that for profit managed charter schools like sabis would be in high demand on the contrary they are fought at every turn why is the idea of employing for profit companies to help rescue failing public schools treated with fear and hostility stranger still why does a nation built on free enterprise refuse to embrace a free market strategy when so many students and schools would clearly benefit and with so much at stake last bell is a book about politics money and power it examines the charge that for profits running charter schools are in it for the money not the kids and reveals the real motives of those spreading these ideas and why they fight private sector involvement in public schools last bell is a reasonable voice in a polarized debate it does not call for an end to public schools but rather imagines a future in which private companies help create a competitive market for public education to boost performance turn derelict schools into centers of excellence and give parents even in the worst neighborhoods real choice and their children a future south african universities face major challenges in meeting the needs of their students in the area of academic language and literacy the dominant medium of instruction in the universities is english and to a much lesser extent afrikaans but only a minority of the national population are native speakers of these languages nine other languages can be media of instruction in schools which makes the transition to tertiary education difficult enough in itself for students from these schools the focus of this book is on procedures for assessing the academic language and literacy levels and needs of students not in order to exclude students from higher education but rather to identify those who would benefit from further development of their ability in order to undertake their degree studies successfully the volume also aims to bring the innovative solutions designed by south african educators to a wider international audience over the past twenty years educational policy has been characterized by top down market focused policies combined with a push toward privatization and school choice the new every student succeeds act continues along this path though with decision making authority now shifted toward the states these market based reforms have often been touted as the most promising response to the challenges of poverty and educational disenfranchisement but has this approach been successful has learning improved have historically low scoring schools turned around or have the reforms had little effect have these narrow conceptions of schooling harmed the civic and social purposes of education in a democracy this book presents the evidence drawing on the work of the nation s most prominent researchers the book explores the major elements of these reforms as well as the social political and educational contexts in which they take place it examines the evidence supporting the most common school improvement strategies school choice reconstitutions or massive personnel changes and school closures from there it presents the research findings cutting across these strategies by addressing the evidence on test score trends teacher evaluation miracle schools the common core state standards school choice the newly emerging school improvement industry and re segregation among others the weight of the evidence indisputably shows little success and no promise for these reforms thus the authors counsel strongly against continuing these failed policies the book concludes with a review of more promising avenues for educational reform including the necessity of broader societal investments for combatting poverty and adverse social conditions while schools cannot single handedly overcome societal inequalities important work can take place within the public school system with evidence based interventions such as early childhood education detracking adequate funding and full service community schools all intended to renew our nation s commitment to democracy and equal educational opportunity this volume is intended for researchers curriculum developers policy makers and classroom teachers who want comprehensive information on what students at grades 4 8 and 12 the grades assessed by naep can and cannot do in mathematics after two introductory chapters on the design of naep the volume contains a chapter on the challenges in analyzing naep data at the item level followed by five chapters that report 2005 through 2013 student performance on specific assessment items these chapters are organized by content area and then by topic e g understanding of place value knowledge of transformations ability to use metric and u s systems of measurement and thus provide baseline data on the proportion of students who are able to complete the mathematics tasks currently used in the upper elementary middle and high school mathematics curriculum additional chapters focus on student reasoning u s performance on international assessments and using construct analysis rather than percent correct on clusters of items to understand student knowledge on specific mathematics topics several themes emerge from the volume one is that while the rate of improvement in mathematics learning in grades 4 and 8 has slowed in recent years it has slowed more on some topics than others another is that relatively minor changes in wording can have significant effects on student performance and thus it is difficult to be specific about what students can do without knowing exactly what questions they were asked a third theme is that changes in performance over time can sometimes but not always be understood in terms of what students are taught for example there were substantial gains on several grade 4 items requiring understanding of fractions and that is probably because the amount of instruction on fractions in grades 3 and 4 has been increasing in contrast while relatively few twelfth grade students have ever been good at factoring trinomials performance on this skill seems to be decreasing this suggests that while more students are completing advanced mathematics courses in high school these courses are not helping in the area of factoring trinomials finally there are limitations to using naep as a measure of student performance on the common core state standards to the extent that naep can be used however the naep data show a substantial gap between expectations and performance research for educational change presents ways in which educational research can fulfil its commitments to educational practice focussing its discussion within the context of mathematics education it argues that while research generated insights can have beneficial effects on learning and teaching the question of how these effects are to be generated and sustained is far from evident the question of how to turn research into educational improvement is discussed here in the context of learning and teaching hindered by poverty and social injustice in the first part of the book four teams of researchers use different methodologies while analysing the same corpus of data collected in a south african mathematics classroom in the second part each of these teams makes a specific proposal about what can be done and how so that its research generated insights have a tangible beneficial impact on what is happening in mathematical classrooms combining two discourses that of researchers speaking to one another and that of researchers communicating their insights to those responsible for educational practice the book deals with the perennial question of communication between those who study educational processes and those who are directly responsible for teacher education educational research and classroom practices this book will be key reading for postgraduates researchers and academics in education and particularly in the areas of mathematics education education research teacher education and classroom practice it will also appeal to teacher educators practitioners and undergraduate students interested in educational research
