Clive Wearing is one of the most famous extreme cases of amnesia ever known. In 1985, a virus completely destroyed the memory part of his brain, leaving him trapped in a limbo of the constant present. Since then, every conscious moment for him is as if he has just woken from a ten-year coma, repeated in an endless loop. A brilliant conductor and BBC music producer, Clive was at the height of his success when the illness struck. For seven years, he was kept in the general ward in the London hospital where the ambulance first dropped him off, because there was nowhere else for him to go. His wife, Deborah, campaigned for better conditions, hopelessly searched for a cure, and in her quest to find answers, founded a national charity. As damaged as Clive was, the musical part of his brain was unaffected, as was his passionate love for Deborah. Finding there was no way to bring Clive back home, Deborah eventually listened to the friends who counselled her to get away, and she fled to America to start her life again. She initiated a divorce, fell for other men, but found it difficult to forget her love for Clive. Then, miraculously, in their transatlantic phone calls, she noticed Clive starting to recover some of his memory, and she was pulled back to England. Today, although he still lives in care, they are closer than ever, and they renewed their marriage vows in 2002.

there was a foundation myth i craved connection to as a child that had a kind of quiet but powerful hold over me at times i would look beyond those granite hills seeking the russia my paternal grandfather had come from which an instinct told me contained some reality that would help form me i wondered what the villages fields and forests would look like rod myer has had an unusual and interesting life a member of the celebrated myer family he had an adventurous spirit and explored his identity through travelling and research a farm kid born in kelly country he had premonitions and yearnings which led to mustering cattle with aboriginal people in the top end he worked in politics and journalism and discovered family secrets which led to revelations about his jewish roots in eastern europe something that altered his life completely that past i believe stays with us as life is not a linear progression it is more a series of spirals drawing on a spiritual world to nourish our progress through our own reality that reality is built on the past and the present concurrently and at times i feel the honour of my forebears touching and inspiring me now
