this work deals with the liability of the holding company for the debts of its insolvent subsidiaries in analyzing the current position under english law the work challenges as outmoded and inadequate the virtual dogma that a holding company is not answerable for the debts of its insolvent subsidiaries the study identifies four separate and distinct types of behavioural practices within corporate groups which may prejudice the interests of external creditors or otherwise constitute an abuse of the corporate form the subservient subsidiary situation the inadequately financed subsidiary situation the integrated economic enterprise situation and the group persona situation after weighing the various arguments for and against a change in the law and concluding that reform is called for the study proceeds to submit some radical proposals for reform the basic thrust of the reform proposals is that in a number of well defined situations entity law should give way to an enterprise analysis and holding company liability should be imposed for the debts of insolvent subsidiaries systems thinking for a turbulent world will help practitioners in any field of change engage more effectively in transformative innovation such innovation addresses the paradigm shift needed to meet the diverse unfolding global challenges facing us today often summed up as the anthropocene fragmentation of local and global societies is escalating and this is aggravating vicious cycles to heal the rifts we need to reintroduce the human element into our understandings whether the context is civic or scientific and strengthen truth seeking in decision making aided by appropriate concepts and methods this healing will enable a switch from reaction to anticipation even in the face of discontinuous change and high uncertainty the outcome is to privilege the positive human skills for collaborative navigation through uncertainty over the disjointed rationality of mechanism and artificial intelligence which increasingly alienates us the reader in search of new ways of thinking will be introduced to concepts new to systems thinking that integrate systems thinking and futures thinking the concept of anticipatory present moment apm serves as a basis for learning the cognitive skills that better enable navigation through turbulent times a key personal and team practice is participative repatterning which is the basis for transformative innovation this practice is aided by new methods of visual facilitation the reader is guided through the unfolding of the ideas and practices with a narrative based on the metaphor of search portrayed in the tradition of ox herding found in traditional far eastern consciousness practice kasper s book is the first to explain the why not just the how in the valuation of privately held businesses and as such makes a unique contribution to its field among its many points the book makes clear that there is no small stock premium current valuation practice produces business valuations that are too subjective and tax precedents and laws do not govern business valuations for other purposes a truly multidisciplinary approach to the advanced study of valuation theory and practice the book critically examines the many common practices and assumptions accepted by certain appraisers and finds them wanting it is thus an in depth exploration of the foundation of current valuation practice and the evidence that supposedly supports or refutes traditional wisdom with easily grasped numerical examples and case studies from kasper s wide professional experience this work is an important source of information knowledge and applications for professional and academics alike not only in accounting and related fields but also in management investment and law kasper begins with a discussion of the most quoted authority in business valuation revenue ruling 59 60 for attorneys this is probably the single richest source of cross examination material available and the ruling appears in its entirety in the appendix although kasper concentrates on developing the conceptual foundations of valuation he also explores more practical matters and their meanings such as fair market values valuations for tax purposes and trial strategy kasper points out that some of the conclusions he offers are controversial but if the logic underlying them is understood their truth will soon be apparent he also argues convincingly that theory is not just for academics but can be a useful tool to understand how the real world works and why it often fails
