following peirce in his non reductive understanding of the theory of signs as a branch of aesthetics this book reconceptualizes the processes of literary creation appreciation and reading in semiotic terms here is a carefully developed theory of what sort of criteria serve to distinguish apposite from inapposite readings of literary works of art given peirce's triadic account of signification it enlarges aristotle's view of mimesis as expressive making into an understanding of literary works as deliberately designed sign systems belonging to peirce's eighth class of signs in parallel with bakhtin's account of the dialogical nature of literary work and its success in exposing misreadings of dostoyevsky this work categorizes in precise theoretical terms what is wrong with the non dialogical readings which treat plato's dialogues as doctrinal tractates as a study in literary theory finally and on the basis of apt distinctions between exhibitively active and assertive judgments this book re demarcates and distinguishes the discipline of literary criticism from that of literary theory and both of these from the work of literary creation itself

Cultural Criticism, Literary Theory, Poststructuralism

this study aims to bring the modern theory of literary criticism and pope's essay on criticism of 1711 into a more productive and interesting association than critical historical structures have generally allowed smallwood marks out in current terms and in depth the specialized theoretical and aesthetic problem of defining criticism he recognizes that criticism no more than literature or art cannot be finally codified or defined but insists on the need for clarity in the exposition of criticism's purposes and a fuller consciousness of a common community of practice available to audiences outside the academic fold affirming the unflinching currency and utility of the term criticism as new languages have taken over the critical domain or have sought to replace or abolish literature smallwood distinguishes between the normative definitions that are everywhere apparent in modern theory of criticism and the advantages to conceptual comprehension achieved by pope's poetic idea of criticism in the essay

The Norton Anthology of Theory and Criticism

this collection of essays in and on recent critical theory and its backgrounds attempts to clarify what is probably one of the most complex situations in the history of literary criticism the classifier of methodologies can look back only with nostalgia at the simplicity of his problems with the limited warfare among new critics biographical and historical scholars neo humanists neo aristotelians and old style freudians and marxists much more confusing these days are the challenges not only to critical method but to the very assumption that there is an object or language for criticism the baffling array of structuralisms post structuralisms and phenomenologies as well as the still lingering versions of older positions now modified to confront these revolutionary alternatives largely continental calls for whatever light can be shed by knowing and intelligent observer participants the contributors to this volume which appeared originally as the summer 1976 issue of contemporary literature have varying commitments and interests but all are distinguished commentators on and makers of theory the occasion created to simulate them to produce studies that reflect on one another was an imagined symposium on a half dozen representative anthologies of recent criticism these authors also formed the board of senior fellows of the first session of the school of theory and criticism at the university of california irvine where the journal edition was much discussed and debated
