through the refugee act of 1980 the united states offers the prospect of safety to people who flee to america to escape rape torture and even death in their native countries in order to be granted asylum however an applicant must prove to an asylum officer or immigration judge that she has a well founded fear of persecution in her homeland the chance of winning asylum should have little if anything to do with the personality of the official to whom a case is randomly assigned but in a ground breaking and shocking study jaya ramji nogales andrew i schoenholtz and philip g schrag learned that life or death asylum decisions are too frequently influenced by random factors relating to the decision makers in many cases the most important moment in an asylum case is the instant in which a clerk randomly assigns the application to an adjudicator the system in its current state is like a game of chance refugee roulette is the first analysis of decisions at all four levels of the asylum adjudication process the department of homeland security the immigration courts the board of immigration appeals and the united states courts of appeals the data reveal tremendous disparities in asylum approval rates even when different adjudicators in the same office each considered large numbers of applications from nationals of the same country after providing a thorough empirical analysis the

a study of biodiversity governance analyzes the factors that determine the effectiveness of transnational advocacy networks and the importance of justice claims to conservation in the late 2000s ordinary citizens in jamaica and mexico demanded that government put a stop to lucrative but environmentally harmful economic development activities bauxite mining in jamaica and large scale tourism and overfishing on the eastern coast of the yucatán peninsula in each case the catalyst for the campaign was information gathered and disseminated by transnational advocacy networks tans of researchers academics and activists both campaigns were successful despite opposition from industry supporters meanwhile simultaneous campaigns to manage land in another part of the yucatán and to conserve migratory birds in egypt had far less success in this book kemi fuentes george uses these four cases to analyze factors that determine the success or failure of efforts by tans to persuade policymakers and private sector actors in developing countries to change environmental behavior fuentes george argues that in order to influence the design and implementation of policy tans must generate a scientific consensus create social relationships with local actors and advocate for biodiversity in a way that promotes local environmental justice environmentally just policies would allow local populations access to their lands provided they use natural resources sustainably justice claims are also more likely to generate needed support among local groups for conservation projects in their conservation efforts jamaica mexico and egypt were attempting to meet their obligations under the un convention on biological diversity and other regional agreements fuentes george s innovative analysis shows the importance of local environmental justice for the implementation of international environmental treaties
