it is an intriguing feature of human experience that in our present world amid thousands of indications of the effectiveness of the scientific method so many of us persist in demonstrably illusory or magical beliefs whether religiously related or simply reflections of long standing superstitions at a time when millions can observe on television the first landings of human beings on the moon when our daily lives in the so called developed countries are replete with conveniences that reflect scientific advances we still persist in daily wagers on the state lotteries in paying astrologers or palmists for their readings in investing thousands of dollars and hours of our legislators time in discussing such issues as the value of daily prayer in the elementary schools the emergence of modern medicine based increasingly on scientific research in chemistry biology and physics has considerably reduced people's resort to shamans and witch doctors within the major sectors of our own society although it has by no means eliminated such practitioners

A Cognitive-Behavioral Approach to Counseling Psychology

this book is an introduction to critical existential analytic psychotherapy it has been written as a response to what is considered to be a crisis point in what is currently taken as psychotherapeutic knowledge a focus point is the relentless move in psychotherapy and psychotherapy trainings towards evidence based practice it is suggested that such developments can be usefully challenged if we are to consider can starting with theory be a form of violence should a primacy be given to practice does reliance on empirical research mean we start from the wrong place from a critical existential analytic psychotherapeutic perspective the answer to all three of these questions is yes this perspective therefore is fundamentally different from what psychological therapists are increasingly purporting to do and further challenges other current notions from diagnosis and treatment to dominant discourses in psychology the aim of this book is to consider some ways in which the psychological therapies might be able to move away from the crisis mainly caused by what is currently wrongly being understood in terms of evidence based practice as the nature of psychotherapeutic knowledge instead it is proposed that primacy be given to practice considering theories having implications rather than applications and privileging sins of the brother the definitive
