groundbreaking work studies the arabic literary culture of early modern southeast asia on the basis of largely unstudied and unknown manuscripts it offers new perspectives on intellectual interactions between the middle east and southeast asia the development of islam and especially sufism in the region the relationship between the arabic and malay literary traditions and the manuscript culture of the indian ocean world it brings to light a large number of hitherto unknown texts produced at or for the courts of southeast asia and examines the role of royal patronage in supporting arabic literary production in southeast asia with the scope of a philosopher and the precision of a scientist dr ahmed takes us on a journey through the labyrinth of islamic history offering unique insights into its own internal dialectic as well as its interactions with western civilization using pivotal personalities and critical events as guideposts he has brought forth the complex interplay of political social economic spiritual and religious currents within the large and diverse muslim world and their interconnections with global developments it is a book for the layman the historian the pundit and the policy maker alike at a time when islam takes roots in america and as it becomes a major force in shaping the destiny of man dr ahmed has used his clarity of thought and his lucid prose to convey the meaning of the muslim experience in history those who are interested in getting new perspectives and insights from the emerging community of muslim intellectuals in the west can find much food for thought in this book professor sulayman s nyang ph d department of african studies howard university washington d c legislator scientist educator and community leader dr nazeer ahmed is executive director of the american institute of islamic history and culture based in california after his graduation with distinction from the university of mysore india he entered the california institute of technology as an institute scholar 1961 where he earned ms and ae e degrees later he received a doctor of philosophy degree 1967 from cornell university and an mba from rider university dr ahmed was an elected member of the legislative assembly in bangalore india 1978 he was an elected delegate to the democratic national convention in atlanta ga 1988 from the 46th congressional district in california he is an inventor and holds fourteen united states patents his articles have appeared in the los angeles times and he has conducted extensive lecture tours in the united states india and malaysia speaking on history science and culture this work documents the importance of the civil rights movement and its lasting impression on american society and culture this revealing volume looks at the struggle for individual rights from the social historian s perspective providing a fresh context for gauging the impact of the civil rights movement on everyday life across the full spectrum of american society from the landmark brown v board of education case to protests against the vietnam war to the fight for black power civil rights movement people and perspectives looks at events that set the stage for guaranteeing america s promise to all americans in eight chapters some of the country s leading social historians analyze the most recent investigations into the civil rights era s historical context and pivotal moments readers will gain a richer understanding of a movement that expanded well beyond its initial focus the treatment of african americans in the south to include other americans in regions across the nation despite advances in modern communication and the proliferation of information there remain areas of the world about which little is known one such place is somalia the informed public is aware of a political meltdown and consequent chaos there but few comprehend the causes of this tragic crisis this new edition covers somalia s origin history culture and language as well as current economic and political issues the alphabetical arrangement of this dictionary with a complete chronology list of acronyms and in depth bibliography provide useful information about the country in a convenient format a vital addition to reference collections supporting undergraduate and graduate programs on africa and the middle east international relations and economics a useful fact filled compendium for government and public libraries ngo s and other special libraries the mayor of mogadishu tells the story of one family s epic journey through somalia s turmoil from the optimism of independence to its spectacular unravelling mohamud tarzan nur was born a nomad and became an orphan then a street brawler in the cosmopolitan port city of mogadishu a place famous for its cafes and open air cinemas when somalia collapsed into civil war tarzan and his young family joined the exodus from mogadishu eventually spending twenty years in north london but in 2010 tarzan returned to the unrecognisable ruins of a city largely controlled by the islamist militants of al shabaab for some the new mayor was a galvanising symbol of defiance but others branded him a thug mired in the corruption and clan rivalries that continue to threaten somalia s revival the mayor of mogadishu is an uplifting story of survival and a compelling examination of what it means to lose a country and then to reclaim it this second volume details the continued spread of muslim culture and peoples during the sixteenth seventeenth and eighteenth centuries a period that saw the height of the powerful ottoman safavid and mughal empires followed by their precipitous decline the contributions of muslims to the development of western civilization continue to be highlighted in this chronology most notably the impact of the ottoman empire on western art and literature and its role in creating an environment in which the protestant reformation could take root this volume reveals the interconnectedness of the muslim jewish african and european diasporas during this period well over half of the world s muslim population lives in asia over the centuries a rich constellation of muslim cultures developed there and the region is currently home to some of the most dynamic and important developments in contemporary islam despite this the internal dynamics of muslim societies in asia do not often receive commensurate attention in international islamic studies scholarship this volume brings together the work of an interdisciplinary group of scholars discussing various aspects of the complex relationships between the muslim communities of south and southeast asia with their respective contributions covering points and patterns of interaction from the medieval to the contemporary periods they attempt to map new trajectories for understanding the ways in which these two crucial areas have developed in relation to each other as well as in the broader contexts of both world history and the current age of globalization no figure has had a more global impact than alexander the great whose legends have encircled the globe and been translated into a dizzying multitude of languages from indo european and semitic to turkic and austronesian alexander the great from britain to southeast asia examines parallel traditions of the alexander romance in britain and southeast asia demonstrating how rival alexanders one christian the other islamic became central figures in their respective literatures in the early modern age of exploration both britain and southeast asia turned to literary imitations of alexander to imagine their own empires and international relations defining themselves as peripheries against the ottoman empire s imperial center this shared classical inheritance became part of an intensifying cross cultural engagement in the encounter between the two allowing a revealing examination of their cultural convergences and imperial rivalries and a remapping of the global literary networks of the early modern world rather than absolute alterity or strangeness the narrative of these parallel traditions is one of contact familiarity and proximity unexpected affinity and intimate strangers this work covers the entire fictional oeuvre of nuruddin farah s novels from the early narratives to the completion of the second trilogy with the publication of secrets in 1998 and also features a concluding chapter on the author s non fictional book on somali refugees the main focus is on the two trilogies particularly the dictatorship trilogy s investigation through parent child relationships and of the family as microcosm of the state and vehicle of political repression in the second trilogy the focus is on the weaving of fables of national identity dovetailing private and public themes through experimental treatment of the ogaden war international relief aid and the somali crisis of the 1990s farah s novels explore the ways in which indigenous traditions domestic communal and oral are implicated in postcolonial totalitarianism and reveal an awareness of both the liberating and disabling aspects of western individualist values and of the oral tradition s rival reactionary and revolutionary possibilities for sale in africa only the somali novelist nuruddin farah is one of the most important african writers today the central question that this book investigates is the relationship between modern identity and the novel as a genre nuruddin farah s novels are shown by moolla to encompass the history of the novel from the proto realism of the acclaimed from a crooked rib to the modernism of a naked needle and the postmodernism of most notably maps returning almost full circle with his most recent novel crossbones moolla examines his writing within the framework of somali society and culture islamic traditions and political contexts all of which are central themes in his work she also addresses farah s engagement with women s lives his female characters and identities being at the heart of rather than peripheral to his stories something that has distinguished him from many other male african writers the book finally suggests that through his literary negotiation of the central contradiction of modern identity farah comes close to constituting a subject who no longer is transcendentally homeless but finds a home everywhere a fitting project for a writer who has been in exile for the greater part of his life f fiona moolla is lecturer in the faculty of arts at the university of western cape in south africa as well as freelance writer and published author of short stories and novels south africa zimbabwe blue weaver this book likens writers incessant focus on racism negative ethnicity patriarchy and social stratification in societies to a naïve physician who prescribes analgesics to treat symptoms while the underlying cause of the disease seethes in the blood in the same way persons who consistently blame their reckless conduct and shabbiness miss the point if they do not transform the actual cause of the problem the mind while most literary scholars problematise gender disparities racial and political othering oppression environment degradation education matters poor parenting and governance they tend to disregard the root cause modernism this book finds a gap in this grey area to address the authentic cause of the symptoms that most literary writers and scholars treat pertinent modernist tenets such as bureaucracy the nation state systematisation and rationality and dualism are at the heart of racism corruption and other aforementioned symptoms it is the contention of this study that postmodernism offers a comprehensive understanding of modernism to mitigate its effects on society issues for 1965 include section annual bibliography of commonwealth literature 1964 the encyclopedia of historians and historical writing contains over 800 entries ranging from lord acton and anna comnena to howard zinn and from herodotus to simon schama over 300 contributors from around the world have composed critical assessments of historians from the beginning of historical writing to the present day including individuals from related disciplines like jürgen habermas and clifford geertz whose theoretical contributions have informed historical debate additionally the encyclopedia includes some 200 essays treating the development of national regional and topical historiographies from the ancient near east to the history of sexuality in addition to the western tradition it includes substantial assessments of african asian and latin american historians and debates on gender and subaltern studies articles from international transaction journal of engineering management applied sciences technologies itjemast itjemast publishes a wide spectrum of research and technical articles as well as reviews experiments experiences modelings simulations designs and innovations from engineering sciences life sciences and related disciplines as well as interdisciplinary cross disciplinary multidisciplinary subjects original work is required articles submitted must not be under consideration by other publishers for publication itjemast s goals are to cooperate report document and promote technical as well as advanced works itjemast strives to meet the quality and standard of international peer

Gifts 2011-04-18 nuruddin farah is widely regarded as one of the most sophisticated voices in contemporary world literature michel foucault is revered as one of the most important thinkers of the twentieth century with his discursive legacy providing inspiration for scholars working in a range of interdisciplinary fields the disorder of things offers a reading of the somali novelist through the prism of the french philosopher the book argues that the preoccupations that have remained central throughout farah s forty year career including political autocracy female infibulation border conflicts international aid and development civil war transnational migration and the horn of africa s place in a so called axis of evil can be mapped onto some key concerns in foucault s writing most notably foucault s theoretical turn from disciplinary to biopolitical power in both the colonial past and the postcolonial present somalia is typically represented as an incubator of disorder whether in relation to internecine conflict international terrorism or contemporary piracy through his work both fictional and non fictional farah strives to present alternative stories to an expanding global readership the disorder of things analyses the politics and poetics that underpin this literary project beginning with farah s first fictional cycle variations on the theme of an african dictatorship 1979 1983 and ending with his past imperfect trilogy 2004 2011 farah s writing calls for a more refined substantial reading of our current geo political situation as such it both warrants and compels the kind of critical engagement foregrounded throughout the disorder of things this book will appeal to students academics and general readers with an interest in the interdisciplinary study of literature its engagement with theorists drawn from postcolonial feminist and development studies set against the backdrop of a host of philosophical and sociological discourses shows how such intellectual cross fertilisation can enliven a single author study

The Disorder of Things 2013-04-01 a close analysis of farah s novels is used to track the contradictions implicit in the notion of the modern disengaged self and how transformations of the novel in literary history attempt to negotiate this founding contradiction

Malay Literature of the 19th Century 2010 starting with the premise that aesthetic choices reveal the ideological stances of translators the author of this research monograph examines works of fiction by postcolonial african authors writing in english or french the genesis and reception of their works and the translation of each one into french or english texts include those by nuruddin farah from somalia abdourahman ali waberi from djibouti jean marie adiaffi from côte d ivoire ayi kwei armah from ghana chenjerai hove from zimbabwe and assia djebar from algeria and their translations by jacqueline bardolph jeanne garane brigitte katiyo jean pierre richard josette and robert mane and dorothy blair the author highlights the aural poetics of these works explores the sound motifs underlying their literary power and shows how each is articulated with the writer s literary heritage she then embarks on a close examination of each translator s background followed by a rich analysis of their treatments of sound the translators strategies for addressing sound motifs are contextualized in the larger framework of postcolonial literatures and changing reading materialities

Reading Nuruddin Farah 2014 the many adventures of the epic in modern times are fascinating topics in themselves the romantics claimed that every self respecting nation should at some time have had one and they set out to reconstruct these epics for political as well as cultural reasons such epics represented earlier stages in the development of nation states and in this modern world they were for a long time hard to appreciate the introduction of tape recorders however brought the epic back in the limelight it became fashionable for scholars to record long oral narratives and to present them as long written poems that reflected deeply ingrained ideas because of this technology the idea of the epic was revitalized this volume presents critical analyses of epics in sub saharan africa the former soviet union south east asia medieval europe and america and discusses the process of revitalization sometimes even invention of epics in particular historical political and academic contexts jan jansen is a member of the department of anthropology of the university of leiden netherlands henk m j maier is professor in the department of languages and cultures of southeast asia and oceania of the university of leiden netherlands

Arabic Literary Culture in Southeast Asia in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries 2024-02-08 despite advances in modern communication and the proliferation of information there remain areas of the world about which little is known one such place is somalia the informed public is aware of a political meltdown and consequent chaos there but few comprehend the causes of this tragic crisis this new edition covers somalia's origin history culture and language as well as current economic and political issues the alphabetical arrangement of this dictionary with a complete chronology list of acronyms and in depth bibliography provide useful information about the country in a convenient format a vital addition to reference collections supporting undergraduate and graduate programs on africa and the middle east international relations and economics a useful fact filled compendium for government and public libraries ngo s and other special libraries Bustan Al-Salatin 2009 the mayor of mogadishu tells the story of one family's epic journey through somalia's turmoil from the optimism of independence to its spectacular unravelling mohamud tarzan nur was born a nomad and became an orphan then a street brawler in the cosmopolitan port city of mogadishu a place famous for its cafes and open air cinemas when somalia collapsed into civil war tarzan and his young family joined the exodus from mogadishu eventually spending twenty years in north london but in 2010 tarzan returned to the unrecognisable ruins of a city largely controlled by the islamist militants of al shabaab for some the new mayor was a galvanising symbol of defiance but others branded him a thug mired in the corruption and clan rivalries that continue to threaten somalia s revival the mayor of mogadishu is an uplifting story of survival and a compelling examination of what it means to lose a country and then to reclaim it

French Perspectives on Anglophone African Writers and Writings 2006 this second volume details the continued spread of muslim culture and peoples during the sixteenth seventeenth and eighteenth centuries a period that saw the height of the powerful ottoman safavid and mughal empires followed by their precipitous decline the contributions of muslims to the development of western civilization continue to be highlighted in this chronology most notably the impact of the ottoman empire on western art and literature and its role in creating an environment in which the protestant reformation could take root this volume reveals the interconnectedness of the muslim jewish african and european diasporas during this period

Islam in Global History: Volume One 2001-07-10 well over half of the world s muslim population lives in asia over the centuries a rich constellation of muslim cultures developed there and the region is currently home to some of the most dynamic and important developments in contemporary islam despite this the internal dynamics of muslim societies in asia do not often receive commensurate attention in international islamic studies scholarship this volume brings together the work of an interdisciplinary group of scholars discussing various aspects of the complex relationships between the muslim communities of south and southeast asia with their respective contributions covering points and patterns of interaction from the medieval to the contemporary periods they attempt to map new trajectories for understanding the ways in which these two crucial areas have developed in relation to each other as well as in the broader contexts of both world history and the current age of globalization

Civil Rights Movement 2009-05-13 no figure has had a more global impact than alexander the great whose legends have encircled the globe and been translated into a dizzying multitude of languages from indo european and semitic to turkic and austronesian alexander the great from britain to southeast asia examines parallel traditions of the alexander romance in britain and southeast asia demonstrating how rival alexanders one christian the other islamic became central figures in their respective literatures in the early modern age of exploration both britain and southeast asia turned to literary imitations of alexander to imagine their own empires and international relations defining themselves as peripheries against the ottoman empire s imperial center this shared classical inheritance became part of an intensifying cross cultural engagement in the encounter between the two allowing a revealing examination of their cultural convergences and imperial rivalries and a remapping of the global literary networks of the early modern world rather than absolute alterity or strangeness the narrative of these parallel traditions is one of contact familiarity and proximity unexpected affinity and intimate strangers

Historical Dictionary of Somalia 2003-02-25 this work covers the entire fictional oeuvre of nuruddin farah s novels from the early narratives to the completion of the second trilogy with the publication of secrets in 1998 and also features a concluding chapter on the author s non fictional book on somali refugees the main focus is on the two trilogies particularly the dictatorship trilogy s investigation through parent child relationships and of the family as microcosm of the state and vehicle of political repression in the second trilogy the focus is on the weaving of fables of national identity dovetailing private and public themes through experimental treatment of the ogaden war international relief aid and the somali crisis of the 1990s farah s novels explore the ways in which indigenous traditions domestic communal and oral are implicated in postcolonial totalitarianism and reveal an awareness of both the liberating and disabling aspects of western individualist values and of the oral tradition s rival reactionary and revolutionary possibilities The Mayor of Mogadishu 2018-04-26 for sale in africa only the somali novelist nuruddin farah is one of the most important african writers today the central question that this book investigates is the relationship between modern identity and the novel as a genre nuruddin farah s novels are shown by moolla to encompass the history of the novel from the proto realism of the acclaimed A Crooked Rib to the modernism of A Naked Needle and the postmodernism of most notably Maps returning almost full circle with his most recent novel Crossbones moolla examines his writing within the framework of somali society and culture islamic traditions and political contexts all of which are central themes in his work she also addresses farah s engagement with women s lives his female characters and identities being at the heart of rather than peripheral to his stories something that has distinguished him from many other male african writers the book finally suggests that through his literary negotiation of the central contradiction of modern identity farah comes close to constituting a subject who no longer is transcendentally homeless but finds a home everywhere a fitting project for a writer who has been in exile for the greater part of his life f fiona moolla is lecturer in the faculty of arts

The Muslim Diaspora (Volume 2, 1500-1799)

2010-11-12 this book likens writers incessant focus on racism negative ethnicity patriarchy and social stratification in societies to a naïve physician who prescribes analgesics to treat symptoms while the underlying cause of the disease seethes in the blood in the same way persons who consistently blame their reckless conduct and shabbiness miss the point if they do not transform the actual cause of the problem the mind while most literary scholars problematise gender disparities racial and political othering oppression environment degradation education matters poor parenting and governance they tend to disregard the root cause modernism this book finds a gap in this grey area to address the authentic cause of the symptoms that most literary writers and scholars treat pertinent modernist tenets such as bureaucracy the nation state systematisation and rationality and dualism are at the heart of racism corruption and other aforementioned symptoms it is the contention of this study that postmodernism offers a comprehensive understanding of modernism to mitigate its effects on society

Reading Nuruddin Farah 2014 so who is omar eby a retired english professor tenderhearted and cynical who looks with affection and severity upon the young man he once was in somalia eby's first chapter learning my name quickly and playfully sets the tone for this fascinating memoir the boy and the old man identifying with one omar after another eby skips from a taliban terrorist and a four star general to a translator of somali tales and an old testament duke then recalls an english student in mogadiscio and an epicurean persian poet meets a chilean anabaptist and finally names the close friend of prophet muhammad omar ibn al khattab you think this an exercise in narcissism of course notthe author finds too many ties linking a nave mennonite missionary boy to muslim society and the incredible beauty of the natural worldshows too well the tensions between documented facts and dramatic memory on the horn of africa somali pirates seize tankers on the mainland clans fire rockets into each others quarters of mogadishu once the capital of the somali republic but omar eby remembers another somalia when he taught there 50 years ago through the grid of accumulated years eby studies that missionary boy the reader hears two voices the 23 year old boy and the 73 year old man often the old man loves the boy often the boy embarrasses him the somalis eby remembers as beautiful and exasperating then in 1959 as now in 2009 the chapters are like a series of transparencies laid down one on top of the other the boys views overlaid by the mans two visits to somalia in his thirties and then memory laid over everything with more details everything should be clearer yet eby writes in the introduction we are pleasantly surprised to find that the historically reconstructed self is still blurred as muddy as the shebelli river which flows through somalia from the ethiopian highlands
