ian haywood explores the golden age of caricature through the close reading of key iconic prints by artists including james gillray george and robert cruikshank and thomas rowlandson this approach both illuminates the visual and ideological complexity of graphic satire and demonstrates how this art form transformed romantic era politics into a unique and compelling spectacle of corruption monstrosity and resistance new light is cast on major romantic controversies including the revolution debate of the 1790s the impact of thomas paine's infidel age of reason the introduction of paper money and the resulting explosion of executions for forgery the propaganda campaign against napoleon the revolution in spain the peterloo massacre the queen caroline scandal and the reform bill crisis overall the volume offers important new insights into the relationship between art satire and politics in a key period of history this doesn't mean rhyming iambic pentameter lines more important is the psychological dimension the little fractures and leaps and resolutions the poem enacts for some reason the lean muscular body of the sonnet frees me to be simultaneously dignified and bold to appear somewhat socialized though what i have to say may be eccentric or unethical and most important of all to have aesthetic power while writing about the tragic situation of the individual in the world cole is both confessional and abstract intimate and cosmopolitan astringent and slain by beauty whether he is writing about the contingencies of selfhood the lives of animals and plants or the violent events of the world there is always the incandescence of his language and the power and surprise of unique formal mastery drawing on broad research this study explores the different social and theatrical masking activities in england during the middle ages and the early 16th century the authors present a coherent explanation of the many functions of masking emphasizing the important links among festive practice specialized ceremonial and drama they elucidate the intellectual moral and social contexts for masking and they examine the purposes and rewards for participants in the activity the authors insight into the masking games and performances of england s medieval and early tudor periods illuminates many aspects of the thinking and culture of the times issues of identity and community performance and role play ruminating resonance of a reasoning mind is an anthology of poems written over a decade or perhaps more the human mind is in constant search of the truth a truth that encircles our lives which is visible yet cannot be perceived without understanding it vibrates within us and forces us to move forward in life it motivates and inspires us to breathe life and sometimes chokes us against our will leaving us to suffocate we reason and justify our moves our actions sometimes to fulfill our needs and yet other times to satisfy our ego this anthology of poems is the reasoning of our ruminating mind in search of that visible and yet unseen truth of life which we have seen and experienced but never actually analyzed to understand
