fragments of trauma and the social production of suffering trauma history and memory offers a kaleidoscope of perspectives that highlight the problem of traumatic memory because trauma fragments memory storytelling is impeded by what is unknowable and what is unspeakable each of the contributors tackles the problem of narrativizing memory that is constructed from fragments that have been passed along the generations when trauma is cultural as well as personal it becomes even more invisible as each generation s attempts at coping push the pain further below the surface consequently that pain becomes increasingly ineffable haunting succeeding generations in each story the contributors offer there emerges the theme of difference a difference that turns back on itself and makes an accusation themes of knowing and unknowing show the terrible toll that trauma takes when there is no one with whom the trauma can be acknowledged and worked through in the face of utter lack of recognition what might be known together becomes hidden our failure to speak to these unaspirated truths becomes a betrayal of self and also of others in the case of intergenerational and cultural trauma we betray not only our ancestors but also the future generations to come in the face of unacknowledged trauma this book reveals that we are confronted with the perennial choice of speaking or becoming complicit in our silence
