Human Heritage 1984 a brisk and cheerfully traditional trip through our history from homo erectus to george w bush kirkus reviews in the human story james c davis takes us on a journey to ancient times telling how peoples of the world settled down and founded cities conquered neighbors and established religions and continues over the course of history when they fought two nearly global wars and journeyed into space davis's account is swift and clear never dull or dry he lightens it with pungent anecdotes and witty quotes although this compact volume may not be hard to pick up it's definitely hard to put down for example on the death of alexander the great who in a decade had never lost a single battle and who had staked out an empire that spanned the entire near east and egypt davis writes when they heard how ill he was the king's devoted troops insisted on seeing him he couldn't speak but as his soldiers every one filed by in silence alexander's eyes uttered his farewells he died in june 323 b c at the ripe old age of thirty two in similar fashion davis recounts russia's triumph in the space race as it happened on an autumn night in 1957 a bugle sounded flames erupted and with a roar like rolling thunder russia's rocket lifted off it bore aloft the earth's first artificial satellite a shiny sphere the size of a basketball its name was sputnik meaning companion or fellow traveler through space the watchers shouted off she's off our baby's off some danced others kissed and waved their arms though we live in an age of many doubts james c davis thinks we humans are advancing as the human story ends he concludes the world's still cruel that's understood but once was worse so far so good

The Human Adventure 1964-11 2000 years of world history is a new presentation of the history of the world the history of the world s civilizations is told in one continuous run with minimum emphasis on the separation of nations national histories serve the needs of individual nationals american history deals with those events considered significant to america and likewise french history focuses on those that have meanings to the french however studying the histories of the americans the french and others does not equate with studying the history of the world no nation is an island past events of a country its history were intrinsically interwoven with those of other countries be it through cultural exchange the spreading of the knowledge of paper making use of gun powder etc diplomatic intercourse evangelizing of religions the opening of japanese ports by matthew c perry etc or conflict no example needs to be given national histories because of their preoccupation with national interests often place secondary emphasis on events beyond that scope and that can lead to bias bias in the sense that our understanding of such events can take on a skewed perspective this prejudice can further be slanted due to nationalism that is the root of the walter benjamin quote history is written by the victors the writers of national histories tend to shine their nations in good light that leads to the coloring of good and evil and right or wrong the fact is historical events should not be understood in such moralistic terms they should be presented as facts not even interpretations of facts but facts based on evidence we should let the history users draw their own conclusions on these events of the past and make their own moral determination rather than imposing on them our notion of moral values an example would be the ongoing conflict in syria the united states is backing the rebels against the syrian government and the president of syria bashar hafez al assad is branded a monster he kills his own people he should be brought to trial as a war crime offender these are all judgment loaded assertions if one were to read pro syria reporting one would get a completely opposite sense the syrian government is battling rebels who are syrians therefore the syrian government is of course killing its own people by siding with the rebels who are thus anointed as being on the right the syrian government is naturally cast as the villain however the syrian government was in place before the challenge of the rebels does it not have the right to defend itself or do we expect the syrian government to lay down its arms and proclaim ah we have learned from the americans that we are the bad guys so we now surrender and make room for the good guys history with a world view allows us to take a bird s eye view of international events if we were to do that with the syrian analogy we would be instead focusing on the involvements of not just syria and usa but iraq turkey the kurds russia and iran and israel each having its interests at stake we will quickly shed our attachment to the notions of good vs evil and who is right and who is wrong extant history often that which is taught in classrooms is fraught with such moralistic proselytizing and it distracts from our attempt to understand what happened in the past and learn from it these involve issues of ethnicity culture and even definitions of nations an example would be the long history of egypt the egypt of today is not the egypt of 2 000 years ago the old egypt is dead its language is no longer spoken its customs are no longer practiced it therefore arouses a feeling of incongruity when the egyptian cultural minister uses the phrase our heritage 2000 years of world history attempts to present history in a renewed light follow up volume 2000 years of world history bce how we came to be
