Australian National Bibliography: 1992 1988 this book offers students and practitioners a sophisticated and convincing framework for rethinking the usual approaches to resource management it uses case studies to argue that professional resource managers do not take responsibility for the social and environmental consequences of their decisions on the often vulnerable indigenous communities they affect it also discusses the invisibility of indigenous people values and knowledge within traditional resource management it offers a new approach to social impact assessment methods which are more participatory and empowering the book employs a range of case studies from australia north america and norway

Rethinking Resource Management 2002-01-31 european colonisation has marginalised the first peoples in industrialised countries such as australia and canada in remote regions still the homes of large aboriginal indian and inuit populations this legacy remains strong modernisation the boom and bust model of state and private development and the partial and biased assistance provided by the state have eroded many communities through their disregard for socio economic structures and the beliefs which underpin them third world in the first explores the past present and future of these peoples their treatment by the west and the alternative strategies of development which might be available to them

Third World in the First 2013-04-03 this book encompasses the whole history of aboriginal and torres strait islander housing

Settlement 2000 this new study offers a timely and compelling account of why past generations of australians have seen the north of the country as an empty land and how those perceptions of australia s tropical regions impact current policy and shape the self image of the nation it considers the origins of these concerns from fears of invasion and moral qualms about leaving resources lying idle from apprehensions about white nationhood coming under international censure and misgivings about the natural attributes of the north and elucidates australians changing appreciations of the natural environments of the north their shifting attitudes toward race and their unsettled conceptions of asia

Environment, Race, and Nationhood in Australia 2016-06-15 this book clarifies and verifies the role sport has as an alternative marker in understanding and mapping memory in japan by applying the concept of lieux de mémoire realms of memory to sport in japan japanese history and national construction have not been short of sports landmarks since the end of the nineteenth century western style sports were introduced into japan in order to modernize the country and develop a culture of consciousness about bodies resembling that of the western world japan s modernization has been a process of embracing western thought and culture while at the same time attempting to establish what distinguishes japan from the west in this context sports functioned as sites of contested identities and memories the olympics baseball and soccer have produced memories in japan but so too have martial arts which by their very name signify an attempt to create traditions beyond western sports because modern sports form bodies of modern citizens and at the same time offer countless opportunities for competition with other nations they provide an excellent ground for testing and contesting national identifications by revealing some of the key realms of memory in the japanese field of sports this book shows how memories and counter memories of sport moments places and heroes constitute an inventory for identity this book was originally published as a special issue of sport in society

Sport, Memory and Nationhood in Japan 2013-09-13 nationalism was ubiquitous in nineteenth century europe yet we know little about what the nation meant to ordinary people in this book both renowned historians and younger scholars try to answer this question this book will appeal to specialists in the field but also offers helpful reading for any college and university course on nationalism

Nationhood from Below 2011-12-12 the original papers collected in this pioneering volume address the historical archaeology of aboriginal australia and its application in researching the shared history of aboriginal and settler australians the authors draw on case studies from across the continent to show how archaeology can illuminate the continuum of responses by indigenous australians to european settlement and colonization taking an innovative approach to the relationship between archaeological theory and contemporary australian history the book also examines the role of archaeology in current debates over aboriginal land rights and the role of post contact archaeology in cultural heritage management an introduction by the series editors places the australian material in the context of indigenous archaeological studies worldwide the volume will be of interest to academic and public archaeologists indigenous people anthropologists historians and heritage managers who deal with indigenous communities

The Cultural Moment in Tourism 2012-07-26 this book analyses the ways in which contemporary women writers in the two settler colonies of australia and south africa explore notions of self identity and place in their fiction

Bookbuyers' Reference Book 1993 engaging with asian australian writing this book focuses on an influential area of cultural production defined by its ethnic diversity and stylistic innovativeness in addressing the demanding new transnational and transcultural critical frameworks of such syncretic writing the contributors collectively examine how the varied and diverse body of asian australian literary work intervenes into contemporary representational politics and culture the book questions for instance the ideology of australian multiculturalism the core periphery hierarchy the perpetuation of orientalist attitudes and stereotypes and white australian claims to belong as seen in its myths of cultural authenticity and authority ranging in critical analyses from the historic first chinese australian novel to contemporary award winning sri lankan bangladeshi and filipino australian novels the book provides an inside view of the ways in which asian australian literary work is reshaping australian mainstream literature politics and culture and in the wider context the world literary scene this book was originally published as a special issue of the journal of postcolonial writing

Musical Islands 2009-05-05 white sets himself a most ambitious task and he goes remarkably far to achieving his goals very few books tell so much about australia with elegance and concision as does his professor michael roe stimulating and informative an antidote to the cultural cringe canberra times to be australian what can that mean inventing australia sets out to find the answers by tracing the images we have used to describe our land and our people the convict hell the workingman s paradise the bush legend the typical australian from the shearer to the bondi lifesaver the land of opportunity the small rich industrial country the multicultural society the book argues that these images rather than describing an especially australian reality grow out of assumptions about nature race class democracy sex and empire and are invented to serve the interests of particular groups there have been many books about australia s national identity this is the first to place the discussion within an historical context to explain how australians views of themselves change and why these views change in the way they do

Australian Studies Now 2007 new voices new visions brings together a collection of papers that engage with the ideas of nation identity and place the title new voices new visions harks back to earlier scholarship that endeavoured to explore these issues it therefore makes links between old and new stories of australian identity tracing the continuities shifts and changes in how australia is imagined the collection is deliberately interdisciplinary gathering work by historians literary and film scholars communication and cultural theorists political scientists and sociologists this mixed perspectives enables the reader to trace ideas concepts and theories across a range of disciplines and understand the distinctive ways in which different disciplines engage with ideas of nation space and australian identity the book is written in an engaging and accessible manner making it an excellent text for undergraduate and postgraduate students in the fields of australian studies it will be especially useful for the growing number of students living outside australia who engage with australian literature and culture the book provides a range of topics that introduces students to key issues and concepts it also situates these ideas in historical context new voices new visions engages with key contemporary issues in everyday australian life environment and climate change immigration consumerism travel and cities it explores these various topics by considering case studies both contemporary and historical for example the issue of attitudes to asia are analysed through art the topic of national symbols through the case of the crocodile approaches to immigration via a popular reality television programme the contributors to this book comprise some of the foremost australian scholars as well as emerging scholars this combination ensures a depth of knowledge but also a vibrancy the editors are experienced scholars whose knowledge of the field is broad and they have brought a coherence to the material ensuring a strong narrative for the reader

Uses of Heritage 2006-11-22 thinking and writing about the past challenging what history might be and how it could appear is an ongoing interest of this journal and an ongoing sometimes contentious point of connection between cultural studies and history the shifts in how we research and write the past is no simple story of accepted breakthroughs that have become the new norms nor is it a story where it is easy to identify what the effects of cultural studies thinking on the discipline of history has been history has provided its own challenges to its own practices in a very robust way while the cultural studies has challenged what the past is and how it might be rendered from a wide ranging set of ideas and modes of representation that have less to do with specific disciplinary arguments than responses to particular modes textual filmic sonic particular sites nations indigenous temporalities sexuality literature gender and perhaps a greater willingness to accentuate the political in the historical
