Aging Matters 2016-04-05 viewing artistic works through the lens of both contemporary gerontological theory and postmodernist concepts the contributing scholars examine literary treatments cinematic depictions and artistic portraits of aging from shakespeare to hemingway from horton foote to disney from rembrandt to alice neale while also comparing the attitudes toward aging in native american african american and anglo american literature the examples demonstrate that long before gerontologists endorsed a janus faced model of aging artists were celebrating the diversity of the elderly challenging the bio medical equation of senescence with inevitable senility underlying all of this discussion is the firm conviction that cultural texts construct as well as encode the conventional perceptions of their society that literature the arts and the media not only mirror society s mores but can also help to create and enforce them

Aging and Identity 1999-04-30 baars explores philosophers from plato to foucault as they consider the meaning of aging and wisdom in our society in this deeply considered meditation on aging in western culture jan baars argues that in today s world living longer does not necessarily mean living better he contends that there has been an overall loss of respect for aging to the point that understanding and dealing with aging people has become a process focused on the decline of potential and the advance of disease rather than on the accumulation of wisdom and the creation of new skills to make his case baars compares and contrasts the works of such modern era thinkers as foucault heidegger and husserl with the thought of plato aristotle sophocles cicero and other ancient and stoic philosophers he shows how people in the classical period less able to control health hazards had a far better sense of the provisional nature of living which led to a philosophical and religious emphasis on cultivating the art of living and the idea of wisdom this is not to say that modern society s assessments of aging are insignificant but they do need to balance an emphasis on the measuring of age with the concept of living in time gerontologists philosophers and students will find baars discussion to be a powerful perceptive conversation starter
