becoming neolithic examines the revolutionary transformation of human life that was taking place around 12 000 years ago in parts of southwest asia hunter gatherer communities were building the first permanent settlements creating public monuments and symbolic imagery and beginning to cultivate crops and manage animals these communities changed the tempo of cultural social technological and economic innovation trevor watkins sets the story of becoming neolithic in the context of contemporary cultural evolutionary theory there have been 70 years of international inter disciplinary research in the field and in the laboratory stage by stage he unfolds an up to date understanding of the archaeology the environmental and climatic evidence and the research on the slow domestication of plants and animals turning to the latest theoretical work on cultural evolution and cultural niche construction he shows why the transformation accomplished in the neolithic began to accelerate the scale and tempo of human history everything that followed the neolithic up to our own times has happened in a different way from the tens of thousands of years of human evolution that preceded it this well documented account offers a useful synthesis for students of prehistoric archaeology and anyone with an interest in our prehistoric roots this new narrative of the first rapid transformation in human evolution is also informative to those interested in cultural evolutionary theory
